McBIRNEY & CO., Ltd., Aston's Quay, DUBLIN

THE PARTIAL STRIKE AT KELLETT'S.

The Public are by now aware of the leading facts concerning this Strike. It seems advisable, however, to again call attention to the immediate cause of so many more people being out of employment than seems necessary.

OWING to slackness of trade, admitted by the Workers' Union, MESSRS. D. KELLETT, LTD., exercising the normal right of every employer, decided to reduce their staff.

THE Executive of the Irish Union of Distributive Workers challenged this right, and said in effect:—"We will not permit you to reduce your staff; you must remain overstaffed." MESSRS. KELLETT failed to comply with this order. A Strike was called. The majority of KELLETT'S Staff, displaying common sense, remained at work and have publicly repudiated the Strike.

THE Merchant Drapers' Association of Dublin wish it to be known definitely that they will never allow their function as Employers to be usurped by the Executive of the Irish Union of Distributive Workers, who surely realise that they have not the right to distribute their members in any proportion they like to any employer.

THE Public will of course understand that even the Executive of the Irish Union of Distributive Workers would scarcely retain the services of half-a-dozen Organisers and Clerks if there was not sufficient work to justify the expense.

Merchant Drapers' Association of Dublin (Ltd.),

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

PARIS NOTES: The Fashionable Colours.

The fashionable shade will be the rust colour that has already been a good deal seen at Nice and Monte Carlo this season, and which persists. Rust colour, copper, golden bronze, russet, burnt-sienna, terra-cotta—every shade of dusty red imaginable. Mauve will not enjoy the vogue that was predicted. It is too difficult a colour to wear, and suits only the very young, the very blond—or certain shades of "carroty" hair—but then one's complexion must be irreproachable, and in these days of dancing in crowded rooms all the afternoon, often evening, and half the night, complexions are hardly up to mauve and sunshine.

The chemise frock that clings and flops in most artistic lines persists. All the flopping, dipping, and dragging is intentional and rather charming. It happens as the wearer moves, and you will notice that, with the best people, it is always a graceful flopping, dipping, and so forth. Therefore, though it looks as if the inexperienced could rush in and easily score a triumph—they had better not try. For them there is always the "chemise," which, with its straight-forward simplicity, is almost—shall I say?—foolproof.

And the best dresses still condescend to the chemise sometimes. When a material is very beautiful it seems almost a pity to cut it up, and the old, old method of cutting a hole in the middle and hanging it on before and aft, with a seam under the arms and a belt somewhere below the waist, has never been surpassed.

At the moment, of course, the great obsession is for slim swathed draperies, and every woman is trying to persuade herself that she can wear these. And, in a manner of speaking, all can, provided that the swathings are handled by adroit fingers and adjusted to meet the requirements of the figure. Hips are a terrible stumbling block to this style, since it is imperative that a straight line should be observed. But there are ways and means of getting over these excrescences, and considerable help is afforded by the growing fancy for starting the draperies from a higher waistline, only one of several indications that we have touched the limits of the elongated body.

Few, perhaps, suspect how many of the slim-draped models are fashioned all in one piece, a procedure that enables the waist-folds to be placed where they are most becoming, and also induces the designer to introduce charming imprévu touches, such as long falling folds from one shoulder. In the case of a nut-brown marocain, to be worn by a short, dark-haired woman, this treatment proved especially happy, giving length and dignity to the petite figure.

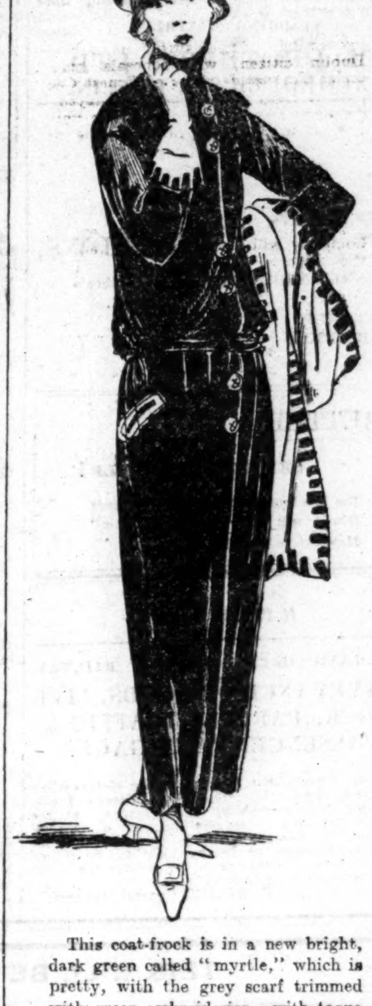
In Paris last March, when the winds of fashion blew, they stirred the pleats that had begun to trim tunics, sleeves, and collars of gowns for street and tea and evening. A very new and interesting stirring it was, for pleats had been cut of the mode for some time. With their return the fashionwise began to think of skirts in dimensions of twelve yards, for such little pleatings foretold a widening of the silhouette—and in truth, certain dressmakers insist upon it. We find it in the robe de style and in summer frocks of organdi and taffetas.

The ruffle movement is another sartorial milestone. A full one, circumscribing the waistline, makes it look large, to contrast it with the narrow skirtline. Of course, there are those who would prefer that freedom round the feet, for, in the smartest of dresses, one cannot well take a life-sized step. But this is nothing in the career of a Parisienne, for she seldom takes one anyway—and under no circumstances a succession of them—in a daily athlete promenade.

Another current mode is the tier movement—it is extremely prevalent. A dress, a corsage even, will consist of tier upon tier of the material, carefully superposed! Sleeves are not even exempt from this fad, which is a pretty one, although ennuyeux for the couturière.

In the larger hats the Gainsborough leads the van, and, for a portrait hat with ostrich plumes, remains a perennial favourite with the Parisienne—through whatever modifications it may assume as the season goes by. The sailor, with a close, narrow brim, which is turned up on the left and down on the right, has been selected for wearing with the tailor-suit, with such trimmings as neutral flowers or a succession of rosettes as may best suit the designer's fancy. Burnt goose, vulture, and drenched ostrich are deemed appropriate, and high loops of ciré ribbon, surrounding a crown, give an effective style not to be ignored. Fruits, intermingled with grasses, flowers, and berries, make charming wreaths for large picturesque hats.

One of the most exquisite hats imaginable—and this is intended for a matron's dressy chapeau—is a bicorne with a high coronet front and a draped crown, with a half wreath of life-sized grey grapes covering the outline of the coronet. It is a truly beautiful model, and on the head of a woman with iron-grey or white hair would be most picturesque and becoming.



This coat-frock is in a new bright, dark green called "myrtle," which is pretty, with the grey scarf trimmed with green embroideries, with toque to match, that accompanies it. The pocket is trimmed with grey leather, and the ceinture is of the material. A high neck and long sleeves give a very tailor effect to the get-up.

WEEK-END TRIPS.

THE "week-end habit" has come to stay, and the flying Saturday to Monday visits are making us experts in travel lore.

Our grandmothers set out on their journeys by the mail coach along the high road, which was full of dangers and perils. It was an event not lightly to be thought of, but, on the contrary, was undertaken with preparations and careful packing, for in those days short visits were impossible owing to the fact that it took sometimes days to reach the destination! So grandmamma packed her boxes with day dresses and evening dresses, petticoats and nightdresses, bodices, and bonnets and boleros, furs and mittens—in fact, a whole wardrobe.

How different is the motor trip of to-day, when one must pack the necessities of a week into a suit-case that will conveniently fit in the carrier!

Travelling has become so universal that the woman who "lives in her boxes" pays particular attention to the selection of clothes and accessories specially adapted to journeying!

The first point that must be emphasised is the ruthless elimination of all that is not absolutely necessary, and as this considerably narrows the field of choice it makes decision easier.

Good materials are essential to stand the wear and tear of travel, and never appear shabby and shapeless. It is positively criminal in these enlightened days to imagine that a woman can travel anyhow—in any get-up. While on the road there are limitless opportunities of making new friends, and first impressions are undoubtedly formed from one's appearance!

Invention has given us marvellous materials that can really and literally be called "uncrushable," and to the traveller they are the greatest blessing. Evening gowns of supple tissue that will not crumple, even if wrung in the hand, emerge from the suit-case in all their flowing beauty. The woollen and silk clothes, beloved of the modern sportswomen, pack splendidly, while the more filmy frocks are so made that they fold perfectly flat.

Tiny spirit irons, manicure cases, well-stocked and compact beauty boxes, folding dress hangers—all the host of modern travel accessories make journeying for the modern woman a most pleasurable affair.

FOR THE COOK.

CHICKEN EN CASSEROLE.

Procure a fine, plump fowl, ready trussed, for braising, put it in an earthenware stew casserole with one ounce of butter, and cook it over a quick fire. After the chicken has attained a light golden colour, moisten with a gill of rich gravy and half a glass of white wine; cover it up and cook it in the oven from forty to fifty minutes (according to the size of the bird). Let the liquid reduce to a half glaze. When ready to serve, dish up the chicken, after untrussing and jointing it. A few button onions may be added as a garnish.

IRISH INDUSTRIES.

COMING ART EXHIBITION AT BALLSBRIDGE.

The scheme for the coming Art Industries Exhibition, to be held at Ballsbridge during the great Irish Horse Show in August, embraces the various arts and crafts practised in Ireland. These will be placed under five sections in the exhibition as follows:—

Section 1 contains 26 classes for such work as cabinet-making, wood-carving, tapestry, stained glass, enamels, leatherwork. Section 2 contains 12 classes—for practical designs for lace, damask, typography, posters, etc. Section 3 contains 13 classes—for artisans and apprentices work in metal, sign-writing, cabinet work, stone carving, etc. Section 4—28 classes—for the various needlework industries, such as lace, embroidery, lingerie, tapestry, hand-tufted carpets, etc. Secton 5—7 classes—for musical instruments, dolls, toys, etc. Prizes amounting to £100 will be offered in Sections 2, 3, 4, and 5.

As the Exhibition is intended to encourage Irish industry, every exhibitor must either be of Irish birth or have resided in Ireland for twelve months.

Full particulars and entry forms may be obtained from the Registrar, Royal Dublin Society, Leinster House, Dublin. The forms must be filled in and returned to the Royal Dublin Society before Saturday, 29th June. Those who intend to exhibit should, therefore, apply at once for their forms. The actual exhibits have not to be sent to the Exhibition until 26th July, but the entry form giving particulars of the exhibit must be lodged with the Society by the 29th June.

GREATER DUBLIN MOVEMENT.

Mr. William A. McConnell, Hon. Secretary of the Civics Institute, writes to say that his Association has not endorsed or approved or adopted the proposals of the Greater Dublin Reconstruction Committee. The Civic Survey Committee has been formed under the auspices of the Civics Institute for the sole purpose of carrying out the civic survey. It is no part of their duty to prepare any town plan or to adopt any particular plan or scheme which may, in the meantime, be prepared and the Civics Institute does not countenance or approve any proposal of such a nature.

ROMAN CATHOLIC MISSIONS.

The Pope's proposal to hold a Missionary Exhibition at the Vatican in 1925 has, says the Irish Catholic, been so enthusiastically received by the Superiors of the various Roman Catholic Missionary Orders that His Holiness has given instructions to proceed with the organising of the Exhibition. Five sections are planned, one each for Europe, Asia, Africa, America, and Oceania. A central section will have for its object the presentation to the public of the actual present state of the evangelisation of the world, and of the successive progress of missions.

INFANT MORTALITY HIGH.

The annual report of Teac Ultain Hospital for Infants, Charlemont street, Dublin, states that until the present conditions of disturbance mend a heavy death-rate amongst infants must be expected, because medical science can do nothing for infants whilst the mothers are going through a prolonged period of anxiety and starvation. The medical report indicated that hunger and unemployment have been exceptionally prevalent in Dublin, and that the very high mortality of infants was directly due to this state of things. The hospital had during the year 105 infant patients in the wards, 44 being under four months old, while 802 out-patients were treated.

The centre seated figure shows a lovely Dress evolved from a French Shawl of Crepe-de-Chine with floral design, and again for the last Cretonne forms an effective trimming on a white model.

YACHTING.

RACING IN LIGHT WEATHER.

Summer came with a rush on Saturday, and, welcome as it was to everybody, it was a bit overdone for sailing purposes. The tides were running strongly and the wind coming in light airs from E. and S.E., and between the two the racing was nearer drifting than sailing.

ROYAL ALFRED YACHT CLUB.

HANDICAP MATCH for yachts 9 tons and over. Course (shortened), 12 miles. Start, 2.50 p.m.

FINISH.	H.	M.	S.
Kismet (winner)—Mr. F. St. J. Worrall (3½ mins.)	8	19	3
Punctilio (2nd prize)—Messrs. Newsom and Stephens (8 mins.)	9	10	7
Tigris—Capt. N. Drury (scr.), fouled mark.
Darthula—Mr. W. B. Graham (20 mins.), gave up.
Espanola—Mr. H. M. Wright (24 mins.), gave up.

During most of the time the yachts were drifting in a thick summer haze. It was, to all appearances, Tigris' day, and her hefty canvas looked the real thing, but Kismet caught her going to the N. Burford, and the race as a handicap was then over. At the S. Burford the pair had dropped the rest; and here Tigris' luck disappeared, the tide putting her on to the mark. All came on in the flood tide, their sails being of little assistance, Espanola resorted to her motor power, and Darthula fell back on sweeps.

Captain A. R. O'Conor was officer of the day.

DUBLIN BAY SAILING CLUB.

Owing to the 25-footers going in the cruiser handicap, and there being no small cruisers yet available, the combined classes match was foredoomed to be a single class match for 21-footers, and three of them—Garavoge, Geraldine and Innisfallen—started, but their course, short although it is, proved too long for the weather and the time limit. The latter operated at 6 p.m.; they had not completed the first round at that hour, and so the race became void. As for the 17-footers and Wags, they at least completed their courses, but each class was weakly represented, and their races were really drifting matches. Details:—

MATCH for 17-footers for club prizes. Start 3.25 p.m.

FINISH.	H.	M.	S.
Mimosa (winner)—Mr. J. B. Boyd	6	15	52
Hera—Mr. O. Weekes	6	36	48

MATCH for Water Wags for club prizes. Start, 3.30 p.m.

FINISH.	H.	M.	S.
Coquette (winner)—Mr. G. H. Jones	6	37	32
Barbara (2nd prize)—Dr. J. T. Wigham	6	39	52
Pansy—Mr. J. H. Stephens	7	0	38
Blue Bird—Dr. G. P. Meldon, gave up.
Mollie—Mr. A. E. Snow, gave up.

Mr. H. R. Newland was officer of the day.

SEAPOINT BOAT CLUB.

The two races sailed on Saturday were the first to carry marks towards the season's prize. Owing to the very light weather, the starts were made half an hour after the advertised time, and this was one of the days in which the relative freedom of the courses of the club from the tide stream showed its advantages. Details:—

CLASS I.—Handicap for the "Powell" special prize and for club marks. No. 2 Course. Start 4.10 p.m.

FINISH.	H.	M.	S.
Mercia III. (winner)—Mr. W. J. Smalldridge (*scr.)	6	11	26
Sho Shi (2nd)—Mr. F. P. Douglas (*2 mins.)	6	26	8
Pixie (3rd)—Mr. F. E. Bermingham (*4 mins.)	6	36	50

CLASS II.—Handicap for club marks. Start, 4.20 p.m.

FINISH.	H.	M.	S.
Petrel (3rd)—Capt. R. E. Bowen (*scr.)	6	28	32
Oreen (2nd)—Messrs. Hartnell and McGoogan (*5 mins.)	6	30	10
Elsie (winner)—Mr. K. Stokes (*10 mins.)	6	31	20
Brunette—Mr. W. R. Willis (*12 mins.), gave up.
Geisha—Mr. E. H. Bermingham (——), gave up.

*Handicap in minutes per hour elapsed time.

Mr. W. B. Conyngham was officer of the day.

HOWTH SAILING CLUB.

The weather off Howth was akin to that experienced in Dublin Bay, the wind coming in a light easterly air. At the start at 3.35 p.m. the order away was Bobolink, Silver Moon, Deilginis, Echo, Zaida. Bobolink held her lead through two protracted rounds, at the close of which the race was stopped. All were on the scratch mark.

FINISH.	H.	M.	S.
Bobolink (winner)—Mr. R. N. Guinness	7	16	35
Silver Moon—Mr. A. Beckett	7	20	28
Echo—Mr. R. Hall	7	26	17
Deilginis—Mr. H. C. Phipps, gave up.
Zaida—Mr. J. G. Franks, gave up.

THE WATER WAGS.

The postponed fourth match (for the "Perry" special prize) will be sailed this evening over the Harbour course. First gun, 6.30 p.m. Handicap for club prizes:—Coquette and Phyllis, each scratch, allow Tomboy III. and Mollie 2 mins. each; Wendy, Mary Kate, and Moosmie 3 mins. each; Pansy, Vela and Barbara 4 mins. each; and Blue Bird 6 mins.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE NEW LAND BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—This seems to be a fair Land Bill, with the startling exception that the Land Commission is to have powers to acquire compulsorily "any land, of any kind, anywhere." So tenants who have purchased on the good faith of this same Land Commission are to have no security in their farms, and owners of demesnes and residential holdings may find undesirable neighbours planted close to their doors. Nothing could be more calculated to lower the value of the land, and thus injure the credit of an agricultural country. The Farmers' Union and the Landowners' Convention should combine in resisting this socialistic proposal.—Yours, etc.,

"LEX."

Co. Sligo, June 1st, 1923.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The proposed Land Bill should surely be welcomed by all the unpurchased Bolsheviks in the Free State, let them call themselves whatever else they like. I give you an example of how a landlord would fare as the result of the sale of an estate with an annual rental of £200 under the proposed Land Purchase Act, 1923:—

Present rental		£200
Annual head rent	£20
Annual mortgage interest on £1,200 at 5%	60
Cost of agency, etc., say	20
		100
Present net income		£100
BONDS OF 4½%.
13 13/19 years' purchase of £200, which gives a reduction to tenant of 7s. in £		£2,737
Add 10% in aid		273
Total purchase money in 4½% Bonds		£3,010
Deduct—
22 years' purchase of head rent of £20 in 4½% Bonds	£440
Mortgage of £1,200 in 4½% Bonds	1,200
Costs of sale—say, at 4% on £3,010	120
		1,760
Surplus in 4½% Bonds		£1,250

Future annual income on £1,250 4½% Bonds = £56 5s., or an annual loss of £43 15s.

If the bonds were sold out for cash, the amount realised at 75 would be £937 10s. cash. If, instead of the rents being judicial, the rents were yearly rents, owing to the tenants having considered that they could not get a reduction by going into Court, the poor landlord may get as low as five years' purchase of the present rent, and is completely at the mercy of the Land Commission. Where an estate is heavily encumbered it will not be worth the landlord's while to make title to his estate, as there will be nothing left for him to get, and he would be only throwing good money away in giving good title to his tenants. Better let the State have the lands and tenants, to do with as they wish.—Yours, etc.,

"JUSTICE."

Co. Wexford, June 1st, 1923.

ARREARS OF INCOME TAX.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The question of income tax arrears, which was dealt with by you in a recent leader, is one of considerable importance to the public, and, as all the various points do not appear to have been fully brought forward, perhaps you will allow me to add the following remarks. The amount to be recovered in relation to the total revenue of the country is a very large sum—namely, £2,500,000, about 10 per cent. of the total revenue and nearly 50 per cent. of the portion raised from income tax. Non-payment will, therefore, throw a correspondingly heavy burden on the taxpayers or prevent the Government from lightening the load when considering the imposition of taxes for revenue purposes. No question of principle appears to be involved, because it is admitted that, by legal process, the Government can do exactly what they propose to do under the Finance Bill. The only difference is that the procedure is much more clumsy and troublesome to operate, and, therefore, gives greater opportunities for those who wish to avoid meeting their due liabilities. No employer would willingly be put in the position which these drastic powers involve; but when it is definitely stated by the Ministry of Finance that the powers are necessary, and that the facts are as above stated, is it desirable that any protest should be made? Definite assurances have been given that in the operation of these powers due discretion will be exercised.

In connection with their application to wage-earners, the following statement was made by the President on the 13th April:—"I do not know whether the deputy will agree with me or not, that the collection of income tax from trade unionists is scarcely an economic proposition." Under the circumstances I think that employers must regard the situation as one created by exceptional circumstances; certainly not one which is to be dealt with by any proposal that the Government's action or inaction in this respect should be made a condition of support in connection with the raising of the loans which will be necessary in the near future.

I see to-day references to the question of double income tax on some of the English Government Funds, and a suggestion that the procedure contemplated is likely to involve hardship. Seeing that the market for these securities is not in any way disturbed, one would expect it to be possible for holders to transfer without loss. As an earnest of a genuine desire not to take any steps which would bear hardly on the holders, the undertaking to allow dividends which had passed without deduction not to be subject to any retrospective claim is surely definite enough, and removes the only possible loss which might be incurred.—Yours, etc.,

"EMPLOYER."

Dublin, June 2nd, 1923.

A QUESTION OF NAMES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In reply to your correspondent, whose letter appeared in to-day's issue, I wish to point out that Section 42 of the Dublin Corporation Act, 1890, gives the Corporation power to alter the name of any street "at the instance and with the consent of the majority in number and value of the ratepayers" in such street. I believe I am right (though it was before my time) in stating that many years ago the late Vice-Chancellor Chatterton, at the instance of the ratepayers, granted an injunction restraining the Corporation from altering "Sackville street" to "O'Connell street." Clearly "Sackville street" remains the only legal name until the Corporation, acting in pursuance of the powers given them by the Act of 1890, decree otherwise.—Yours, etc.,

"T. C. T."

Dublin, June 1st, 1923.

THE GOVERNMENT AND FILMS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Kinematograph Renters' Society desire to bring to the notice of the public certain matters relating to the trade in, and exhibition of, films, as they feel that the facts are not fully realised. The Kinematograph Renters' Society, and the traders whom it represents, are entirely at a loss to understand why the Free State legislation has been so consistently detrimental to the film industry, which has catered for some years past, to the best of its ability, for the amusement of the public, more particularly of those who must obtain their entertainment at a moderate price. The Government reaps a considerable harvest from the amusement tax collected at the various picture theatres in the Free State.

In the last few months regulations and taxes have been imposed one after another, which are rapidly making the carrying on of the trade impossible. First came the Customs regulations, the effects of which have already been most serious. The number of films imported has considerably diminished. A large number of trade shows, which gave employment to Dublin workers, have been suspended. The traffic in films on the Great Northern Railway Company's system, which used to be very heavy, has practically ceased, and film-renting firms are now, to avoid vexatious Customs regulations and payment of excessive duties, compelled to send their films to Northern Ireland via Liverpool or Glasgow and Belfast, instead of via Dublin, as hitherto, with the result that the staffs engaged in the Dublin offices are being reduced. Actual facts and figures can be given verifying all these statements. The loss in employment in the Free State is already serious, and will become more so.

Next come the Censorship regulations, under which all films already censored by the Dublin Corporation censors, and approved by them for public exhibition, have apparently to be re-censored—the Irish Committee of the Renters' Society conclude, in order to provide occupation for the staff which is to be employed by the new Government censor's department. This re-censoring is entirely unnecessary. The film trade welcomes a censorship, and the members are prepared to assist in every way in their power in the proper carrying out of such requirements as may be reasonable and necessary. Such are as much to their interest as they are to the interest of the public. The present arrangements, however, have been made with an utter and callous disregard for the interests of the trade and of the public, and will eventually cripple an industry which should otherwise become more and more a revenue-producing asset to the State. The Act is said to be for the public benefit, but no contribution is to be made from public funds towards the cost of its administration. This is to be imposed on the unfortunate importers of films, and will involve the dislocation of contracts for films already entered into, but not yet matured.

If the film industry were a public enemy and the Government desired to kill it, no course of action could be better planned. The public will soon begin to realise the serious consequences entailed, and when the Government has succeeded in taxing, penalising and generally crippling the trade until it has practically ceased to exist, it will, perhaps, begin to waken up to a sense of realities.—Yours, etc.,

N. ORMSBY-SCOTT, Chairman.
Irish Advisory Committee,
19 St. Andrew street, Dublin,
June 1st, 1923.

CROKE PARK FETE.

RAISING FUNDS TO EQUIP ATHLETIC GROUNDS.

The fête organised with the object of raising funds to clear the existing debt on Croke Park, Dublin, and to enable the committee to develop and equip the grounds in a more thorough and up-to-date fashion, was opened at the grounds on Saturday afternoon by Mr. Dan McCarthy, T.D.

Mr. J. J. Walsh, Postmaster-General, in the course of a short address, said that the Gaelic Athletic Association desired to equip the grounds at Croke Park so that they could hold their own with what the capital of any foreign country could show in the same line. All Gaels should patronise the fête to ensure that the plans of the committee might be carried through.

The fête will remain open until the 18th inst. The attractions include Irish dancing competitions, a ceilidh hall, a ballroom, a concert hall, an American lounge, tea gardens, and many stalls tastefully set out. Palmistry, fortune-telling, hobby-horses, chair-o-planes, shooting galleries, and a host of other amusements are also provided.

The League of Nations Opium Commission has adopted unanimously, in an amended form, the motion put forward by Sir Malcolm Delevingne on the subject of the proposals submitted by the United States representative.

THIS WEEK IN DUBLIN THEATRES.

"THE BROKEN WING."

After a successful season at the Duke of York's Theatre, London, "The Broken Wing" Company will appear at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, this week. It is a comedy, in four acts, by Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard. The atmosphere of the play is Mexican. The company includes Thurston Hall, the distinguished American actor, in his original part.

THEATRE ROYAL.

Miss Zona Vevey and Max Erard will appear at the Theatre Royal this week. Mr. Erard's organ performances should be a great attraction. Other features will be Cornella and Eddie, in "Toss-em and Miss-em"; Fred Hutchings, described as "The Lady of Laughs"; Daly and Healy, in "Daffy Didos"; Charlbert Brothers, the Whirlwind Boys; The Glaser Girls, in a novel act; and Barbette, a real versatile speciality.

ABBEY THEATRE.

"A Matter of Fact," which is the attraction at the Abbey Theatre this week, is a modern play somewhat daring in its subject and treatment. It was originally produced at the Comedy Theatre, London, by Norman McKinnell, with Eva Moore in the part of Lady Marlow. According to the London critics, the work is strong in dramatic situations, and the dialogue is original, clever and interesting. The author is a well-known Dublin citizen, who conceals his identity under the nom-de-plume of Ernest Cecil. The part of Lady Marlow will be played by Miss Elizabeth Young, and that of Sir Phillip Marlow by Mr. W. B. Dowling, the remaining parts being in capable hands. The producer is Mr. J. C. O'Brien.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

Mr. P. J. Bourke's Musical and Dramatic Company will pay a welcome return visit to the Queen's Theatre, and will present "Kathleen Mavourneen," a domestic Irish drama, with music. There are six scenes, the caste is a good one, and the drama should be well patronised. The Lennox Troupe, under the direction of Aileen Lennox Magee, will introduce Irish and ensemble dancing.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

An interesting programme has been arranged for the Tivoli Theatre this week. Archie Hill, tenor, will sing selections from his repertoire; Pasingbji, the Oriental entertainer, will introduce his "Biscuit Tin"; Walter Aubrey and Joyce Hart will provide enjoyment in dancing cameos, in which "The Jockey Dance" will be introduced; Gerald Cyril, the Australian flying ventriloquist, will present a novel act; while J. R. Evans, the Australian novelty entertainer, on the Silver Thread, should be a welcome performer. Miss Chrissie Manning, soprano, and Henry and Edgar Martell will complete a capital bill.

"PAID BACK."

At the Stella Picture Theatre, Rathmines, "Paid Back" will be screened to-day and on Tuesday and Wednesday. The cast is said to be excellent, and the picture story full of interest. For the remaining three days, "For Those We Love" will be shown.

PRINCESS CINEMA.

On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, at the Princess Cinema, Rathmines, "Custer's Last Stand," with Wesley Barry and James Kirkwood in the principal parts, will be the leading picture. Other features will be Pathé Gazette and comedies. On the last three days of the week William S. Hart will appear in a drama, entitled "The Testing Block."

THE CARLTON.

"Monte Cristo," an adaptation of Alexandre Dumas's romance, will be presented at the Carlton Cinema this week. No expense has been spared in connection with the production of the picture, in which some prominent film "stars" figure.

WHITE CITY CARNIVAL.

The children's carnival ball at the Mansion House, Dublin, on June 9th, promises to be a great success. There is a great demand for tickets. The ball is being organised by Mrs. A. V. MacArthur, in aid of the White City Carnival, and many novel features will be introduced. The Owen-Smith Symphony Band has arranged an attractive programme of music. Dancing will take place from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

SECRET MUNITION FACTORIES.

SOME INTERESTING OFFICIAL DISCLOSURES.

The official organ of the Free State Army, An t-Oglac, this week gives a long description of the secret munition factories that were used before the truce.

"Matt Furlong was in charge of the first munition works started, 198 Parnell street, which had all the appearance of a harmless bicycle shop in a small way of business."

It was twice raided in the summer of 1919 by the D.M.P., and on December 2nd, 1920, by the British military and Auxiliaries.

"Munitions works were speedily in full swing in other parts of the city. The principal shop was in 3 Luke street. It appeared to the passer-by to be small engineering shop of Messrs. 'Keen and Co.' On one occasion, in November, 1920, the Auxiliaries broke into the place at night and searched it thoroughly—and found nothing. The assembled parts, strikers, etc., were hidden under a secret fireplace.

"Other workshops were at Percy place—Messrs. 'Dunn and Co., Plumbers'—over O'Rourke's bakery in Parnell street, in Crown Alley, and in Vicar street.

"A man was employed every day practically as carrier between the different places where the munitions were being manufactured. He was continually drawing stuff away from Percy place in the mornings, and taking all finished articles to the Quartermaster-General's department. He took raw castings from the foundry in Luke street to be machined in Crown Alley. When machined the articles were conveyed by him to Percy place for assembly.

"On one occasion a party of the Auxiliaries entered the yard in Percy place where the munitions were being made. Behind a thin partition the munition makers stopped work and held their breaths. The Auxiliaries actually struck matches on the wall of the partition.

"The factories have been busy since the Treaty helping to supply the needs of the Army. The work done has included the manufacture of elaborate scientific machines."

Ryan and Captain Myles, representatives of the Waterford Command to the Army Executive at Headquarters, Dublin. The following referees for the Waterford Command were appointed:—Commandant Ryan, O.C., 25th Battalion; Lieutenant Connolly, 4th Battalion; Sergeant-Major Dwan, 36th Battalion; Captain Halpin, 64th Battalion; Lieutenant Lawlor, 14th Battalion.

A 40 h.p. engine with dynamo has been installed in a cabin twenty feet above quay level, and this plant will be sufficient to lift and lower the twin bridges at tide-time to allow the ingress and egress of steamers, and save the expense of the night-running of the large electric power house at Alexandra Basin.

CIVIC GUARD AND DECREES.—District Justice Meagher, at the Tullamore Court, did not like the idea of asking the Civic Guard to execute decrees, as he thought that it was not part of their duty, and said that if there was a suitable person available he would not address the warrant to the Civic Guard, but there was no such person.

The case contained a lump of "bog-butter." The wood was decayed, but the butter was in a good state of preservation. It was found at a depth of seven feet in the bog, where probably it had lain for hundreds of years.

THE ULSTER TEMPERANCE BILL.—A Band of Hope demonstration and pageant in connection with the Irish Temperance Alliance took place in Belfast on Saturday and attracted thousands of spectators. Outside the City Hall the Anti-Prohibition Party assembled and protested against the Government's Temperance Bill. EDUCATION IN NORTHERN IRELAND.—At the monthly meeting of the Belfast Branch of the Irish National Teachers' Organisation, Messrs. Todd, Harbinson and Boyd, who formed the deputation which recently waited on Lord Londonderry, reported that they had had a very favourable reception from his lordship, who, they said, was specially pleased to receive representatives of an organisation of teachers of all creeds and classes. His lordship listened very attentively to the representations made by the deputation on pensions, religious instruction, and various other matters, and his assurances to the deputation on these subjects were regarded as entirely satisfactory.

NORTHERN EDUCATION BILL.—At a meeting of the Armagh Diocesan Board of Religious Education, on Friday, the Primate in the chair, the following resolution was proposed by the Rev. D. G. Allman, seconded by the Rev. R. S. Morrison, and passed unanimously:—"That this Board is not satisfied that the Education Bill has safeguarded the teachers and schools against unfair appointments, in which teachers who, on religious and other grounds, are unsuitable, might be nominated, and, therefore, cannot recommend managers to transfer schools until this defect has been remedied."

TRENCHED ROADS AT THE BORDER.—At the meeting of the Derry District Council on Saturday, a letter was read from Colonel Moore Irvine, County Commandant of the Special Constabulary, in reference to the request of the Council to have warning notices erected at trenched roads near the border. The Commandant said that obstructions had always been put on either side of the trench. This was found to be the most effective form of warning, but, unfortunately, in several instances they had been removed by evilly-disposed persons.

CLAIM DISMISSED.—At the Claims Court on Saturday in Belfast, David Thompson, father, and Marcella Thompson, mother, sought £2,000 compensation in respect of the fatal shooting of John Thompson (18), a car-driver, late of 3 Henry street, during the disturbances in 1920. It was stated that the claim had been lodged late, and the judge refused to extend the time and dismissed the claim.

NORTH-EAST ELECTRICITY BILL.—A meeting of the Belfast City Council has been called to consider the lodging of a petition in the Ulster Parliament against such of the clauses of the bill promoted by the North-East Ulster Electricity Supply Company as affect the rights and interests of the Council and in support of other clauses for their protection. The financial aspect of the petition will also be discussed at the meeting.

A FLOATING HOTEL.—The "Arcadian," a palatial ocean cruiser of 12,050 tons gross, owned by the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, ran very successful trials on Saturday in Belfast Lough, after having been extensively reconditioned and overhauled by Harland and Wolff, Limited. This magnificent vessel, which is 535' x 62' x 35', enjoys the distinction of being the largest ship in the world devoted exclusively to pleasure cruising. The accommodation at the disposal of passengers (first class only) is on a very superior scale, while the equipment and furnishings generally have been arranged to give passengers all the comfort of the highest class hotel. The "Arcadian" will cruise to the North Cape and the Northern capitals of Europe, also Spain, Morocco, Algiers, and the Canary Islands.

SOUTHERN FARM STRIKE.

LARGE QUANTITY OF HAY BURNED.

Everything, says our Kilkenny Correspondent, is quite normal in the Kilmanagh and Ballyline districts. The strike leaders emphatically deny the allegation made by the farmers' representatives, that the strikers pulled down gates and drove cattle off the lands. They add that this damage was done by undesirables in order to blacken the men.

In Ballingarry, which is the headquarters of the strikers, about forty tons of hay, the property of Mr. Fennelly, treasurer of the local branch of the Farmers' Union, were completely destroyed by fire. It is stated unofficially that reinforcements of military and Civic Guards are to be drafted into the affected areas.

There were no incidents of any importance in Dungarvan on Saturday in connection with the strike of labourers in East Waterford, says our Correspondent. A good many farmers from the strike area were in town, but picketing appeared to have ceased. Business went on smoothly, and without any interference.

Last Friday night a large lorry belonging to a local merchant was given over to Mr. O'Mahony, butter merchant, to take a load of butter to Cork. He had purchased some tons of butter during Friday. The lorry stopped on the Square, where it was loaded. When it was ready to start it was found that the engine would not work. Repeated attempts were made, but without success. The lorry was allowed to remain on the Square all night, guarded by military. In the morning an expert put it right, and it started on its journey to Cork.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—IRISH BACON continued easy in sympathy with Danish, and now offered at 98/- to 108/-, while Danish is pressed for sale at further reduced prices of 94/- to 98/- per cwt. Canadian Wiltshires also ruled in favour of buyers. American bacon shows no material change, Chicago cables being again encouraging for both live hogs and speculative products, but trading on the whole is of only a moderate character, Cumberlands attracting most attention. HAMS firm, and in fair request at late rates, especially for short cut. Shoulders still firm at recent currencies. LARD on the spot, in sympathy with America, shows a further improvement. Prime steam now held at 62/3 to 63/3, and American refined 62/6 to 64/9, with a moderate business reported. CHEESE continues to move upwards; Canadian now raised to 89/- to 92/-, and New Zealand. 93/- to 95/- per cwt. BUTTER in improved request and dearer, 154/- to 158/- being now wanted for Danish, 142/- to 145/- Irish creamery, and 148/- to 150/- for New Zealand. EGGS firmer, with Irish hen held at 11/9 to 13/6 per 120. Imports of provisions (cwts.)—To-day—Bacon, 478; hams, 235; lard, 905. NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

The Bishop of London addressed enormous congregations at the Morning, Afternoon and Evening Services in St. Anne's Church, Belfast, yesterday.

A branch of Cumann na Gaedheal was formed at Enniscorthy, County Wexford, yesterday. The several speakers pleaded for support of the Free State Government.

The cross-Channel steamer Graphic sank in Belfast Lough yesterday after a collision with the American steamer Balsam. She carried two hundred passengers. There was no loss of life.

A temperance demonstration, in which several thousand people took part, was held in Kingstown yesterday.

ABROAD

The French Premier has hurriedly returned to Paris from Alsace to deal with the situation which has arisen in connection with the discovery of a Royalist plot. Numerous arrests are expected.

M. Tchitcherin, in a special interview with our correspondent in Moscow, declares that "Lord Curzon desires a breach" with Russia.

Germany is preparing a new Reparations Note, and is reported to be willing to offer £2,500,000,000.

The strike of municipal employés in Cologne is ending.

It is suggested that Sweden should intervene, and request the League of Nations to settle the Ruhr and reparations problems.

SPORTING.

At the Phœnix Park on Saturday Mr. C. T. Wallis's Vesington King won the Blake Plate.

At Doncaster the King's Bewood won the Chesterfield Plate.

At Windsor Sunrising won the Royal Windsor Three-Year-Old Handicap.

The Derby prospects and the rumours about Town Guard are discussed by our Travelling Correspondent on Page 8.

The Cost of Education.

In all parts of the United Kingdom—it was then a United Kingdom—the cost of education rose sharply during the years which followed the war. The primary teachers reaped the larger part of the benefit. Before the war the average salary of teachers in elementary schools in Great Britain was less than a £100 a year; to-day it is £237. In the Free State the present salaries of primary teachers range from £170 to £370 for men and from £155 to £300 for women. It is admitted almost everywhere that improvements in the teachers' position were overdue, but the economist's axe is not sparing their newly-found prosperity. The English education vote has grown to a huge size, and the Government has been forced to bow to the demand for all-round reductions in the country's expenditure. On Thursday last Mr. Edward Wood introduced the Education estimate in the House of Commons. It reaches a total sum of nearly twenty-six millions, but it is smaller by three millions than that of 1922, and smaller by nine millions than that of 1921. The major part of the reduction comes under the head of teachers' salaries. One cause of the reduction is temporary. Owing to the decreased birth-rate during the war, fewer children are entering the schools at the age of five, and many teachers have lost their employment. In the next place, the teachers made a voluntary surrender, twelve months ago, of five per cent. of their salaries. The reduction is likely to be permanent, but is not likely to be aggravated.

The Irish teachers cannot hope to be untouched by the demand for economy in the public services, and the question of salaries has been raised already in the Northern Parliament. The estimate for national education in the Free State, which the Dail accepted last week, is slightly in excess of two and a half millions. The sum represents a large part of the national revenue, although it is dwarfed, for the time being, by the heavy cost of the Army. It is probable that during the early years of the Free State the expenditure on education will be a favourite object of attack by people who have begun to realise that henceforward we must pay for our own education, but have not yet begun to realise that good education is worth the money. The strongest resistance to outlay on education will come, no doubt, from the farmers, whose party in the Dail may receive a considerable access of strength at the next general election. Are the universities, the teachers and other friends of education prepared for the attack? A purely negative policy—a mere stand upon existing salaries, however well-earned they may be—will not suffice. It is certain that rational and desirable economies can be made in the working of the educational machine; and, if the teachers are wise, they will be ready with some practical scheme. For instance, they can make themselves the leaders of a movement for amalgamation. They can meet the demand for cheaper teachers with a counter-demand for better and fewer schools.

It is high time that all who live by and for education in the Free State should gird their loins for the coming struggle. The first thing which they ought to realise is that the true interests of all our branches of education, from the university to the primary school, are identical, and that weakness at any spot means weakness through the whole structure. The weakest point in Irish education to-day is the position of the lay secondary teachers. Like many other things, education gains strength from the appearance of respectability. In a land where shrewd, but narrow, brains reckon most things by their value in pounds, shillings and pence, the status of these secondary teachers—miserably paid and without security or pensions—is an appallingly bad advertisement for the value of education. It puts the academic degrees, which so many of these hungry, slighted shepherds of youth possess, on a level with the German mark. For this reason, and apart from all the claims of justice, we never cease to wonder why our universities and national teachers have not made common cause with the lay secondary teachers, and why the Free State Ministry of Education is so exasperatingly slow in removing their most urgent grievances. There is a real danger that, if these secondary teachers are not raised quickly to the level of the primary teachers, their wretched standing may be made the chief argument for a general policy of levelling down. At this moment they are the Achilles' heel of education in the Free State.

A Danger Signal.

The strike at Cologne affords an excellent example of the rapidity with which Bolshevism spreads. During the past few weeks parts of the Ruhr Valley have been in the throes of a Communist upheaval. The French Army Command in the Ruhr Valley officially has assumed an attitude of complete neutrality, and the strike movement has spread to several important centres of industry. Now it has reached Cologne, where a strike was declared as the result of a wages dispute. All the municipal workers have joined it, and over ten thousand men are involved. The men's organisation is so thorough that even the grave-diggers at the municipal cemeteries have gone on strike, with the result that interments are being carried out by the relatives of the dead. The strikers, undoubtedly, have a grievance, because their rates of pay are absurdly low; but, on the other hand, they are no lower than in other parts of Germany. The municipal council, however, was prepared to grant an all-round increase as from June 1st; but it insisted that the strike must stop before anything else was done. The men at first were equally uncompromising. They have been bitten by the Bolshevist virus, and the fact that they have broken away from their own trade unions is very ominous. The position of the British authorities in Cologne is rather delicate. So far the strikers have made no attempt to interfere in any way with the requirements of the military. Men who have been requisitioned for work by the British have done their jobs without demur, and the conduct of the strikers generally has been exemplary. Under one of the regular ordinances of the High Commission, however, strikes are forbidden in all vital industries unless the correct procedure under German law has been observed. In the first instance, the strikers ought to have appealed to the British authorities to intervene in the dispute; and then, if their intervention should have failed, eight days' notice of the proposed stoppage of work ought to have been given to the Allied High Commission. This ordinance was ignored completely by the men, and the British authorities placed four of the more prominent Labour leaders in the town under open arrest. These four men, however, undertook to use their influence to bring the strike to an end, with the result that they were set at liberty. Apparently, their efforts have been successful; for it is announced to-day that the strike has been settled. A useful lesson may be learned from the whole affair. The French have flirted with Communism in the Ruhr, and now the British have got a taste of it in Cologne. From the Rhine to Brussels and Paris is but a step, and Bolshevism is notoriously contemptuous of political frontiers.

Prohibition in New York.

There are times when it is permitted to pity the sorrows of a prominent politician. Such an object of commiseration is Governor Smith, of New York State, who was compelled on Thursday last to listen for six hours to speeches by advocates and opponents of the law recently passed by the New York State Legislature. The Bill repeals the State Act enforcing prohibition, and it required Governor Smith's assent before it could become law. Thus Mr. Smith found himself confronted with the necessity of taking a step that was likely to make his name anathema to about half the electorate to which he must appeal when he seeks still higher political preferment. As he could not evade the responsibility of signing or refusing to sign the Bill, he called upon the protagonists of both parties to argue their cases before him as an aid to his decision. The arguments have been made and experts on the spot hold that those who favour the Bill—the effect of which is to cast the unpleasant burden of enforcing prohibition in New York State entirely on the Federal Government—have the best of it. They urged that nation-wide prohibition was not desired by the people of the United States or by the people of New York State, but had been forced upon them under cover of the war. It was urged also that prohibition was not prohibiting, but was inflaming class hatred by preventing the poor from getting what the rich could obtain without difficulty. Against the Bill it was pleaded that, rightly or wrongly, prohibition had become a part of the United States Constitution and that New York State could not enjoy the benefits of federal government and refuse at the same time to assist in upholding the Union's laws. In the end Mr. Smith signed the Bill, and so gave the signal for widespread and furious controversy.

Taking the Waters.

The bath as a therapeutic agent dates from the Roman Empire, and most of the European spas, springs and hydropathic resorts that are still patronised by the ailing were well known to it. Naturally, some slight doubt always has existed whether it was the waters of Homburg, Nauheim, Cheltenham, Droitwich and such resorts that were curing the patients or the generally rigid rules as to fresh air, frugal diet and regular exercise which were imposed by the presiding medical genie of the spot. One of the most famous water "cures" made fashionable by the Romans, and well patronised ever since, is Bath, and now the Royal Mineral Water Hospital at Bath is about to make a, perhaps, dangerous experiment. It proposes to ascertain by scientific tests whether the Bath spring waters really cure rheumatism or whether the ameliorative agent, in those cases where the patient has recovered, has been some other cause—dietetic moderation or even faith. A thousand sturdy unemployed will be brought to Bath and will live there as the hospital's guests for three weeks. Blood tests will be taken at the beginning and at the end of the period, and from the results the seekers after truth will decide whether rheumatism, if it had been present, could have been cured partially or entirely by the change. Scientifically, as well as from the point of view of the thousand unemployed, the experiment is admirable. What the proprietors of medicinal springs and their affiliated hotels and kursaals the world over—to say nothing of the specialists who take the sufferers in charge—will think of it is another question.

MR. CHURCHILL AND IRELAND.

MR. W. PRINGLE, M.P., HITS BACK.

The verbal exchange between Mr. W. Pringle, M.P., and Mr. Winston Churchill has advanced another stage with the publication of the following letter by the former:—

"On the ground of my reference to his 'bewildering series of unrelated obsessions,' Mr. Churchill charges me with plagiarism and injustice. I am aware that the phrase had already appeared in a newspaper in a slightly different form. I had coined it in conversation with a friend, who was a writer to the Press, and gave him permission to use it. As I have not Mr. Churchill's substantial motives for safeguarding copyright I made no stipulation about acknowledgment. A master of phrase-making like Mr. Churchill need not have been so jealous of an isolated achievement by a humbler practitioner of the art. 'It is a poor thing, but mine own.'

"Mr. Churchill's rejoinder should be contrasted with the following record:—He raised aloft the 'tattered flag of economy' bequeathed to him by Lord Randolph Churchill when our national expenditure was £150,000,000 (one fifty million), and he justified the waste and extravagance of the years 1919 to 1921, when the outgoings had risen to more than £1,000,000,000 (one thousand millions); he was one of the chief critics of Mr. McKenna in 1909, denouncing the 'fearalls who demanded Dreadnoughts,' and four years later, having taken over Mr. McKenna's job, he was the chief champion of increased naval expenditure; in 1908 he 'banged, barred, and bolted' the door against Imperial Preference, and in 1919 he was a member of the Cabinet which placed it on the Statute Book; in 1900 he was the champion of the House of Lords, and in 1911 he had a full share of responsibility for the Parliament Act; he was a full-blooded Unionist up to 1906, and, after some ambiguous adventures at the North-West Manchester by-election in 1908, he was one of the sponsors of the Home Rule Act of 1914; he was out for war with Ulster in 1914, and he engaged in war with Southern Ireland in 1920. This is only an imperfect catalogue of Mr. Churchill's brilliant inconsistencies, to which my peccant phrase does scant justice.

"I venture respectfully to offer Mr. Churchill a better apologia. The Centre Party, to which he now shows such singular fidelity, supplies the underlying unity, which, in Hegelian language, reconciles all these differences and inconsistencies, and in reconciling transmutes and transcends them. I claim no copyright."

"UNTARNISHED GOLD."

(BY "M.")

> But still 'tis truth I'm tellin' ye, or may I never sin,
> All the gold in Ballytearim is what's stickin' to the whin.
> —Moira O'Neill.

I THOUGHT of these words as I went my way past the hill of gold, and down a dusty road guarded on either side by golden barriers; for, just now, we country folk are millionaires, and our gold will not tarnish. Every year we say: I have never seen such blossom on the furze; but surely this time we can say so with truth.

The little green hill is covered with a mantle of cloth of gold, and the humblest laneway is bordered with the same costly material; and it belongs to each of us alike. There is only one condition attached to the inheritance of this fortune, and that is, that we must first possess the seeing eye which will enable us to enjoy it.

The sight of this mass of pure gold on a green hillside, with a lark's song pulsing in a sky of deepest blue, where lazy white clouds amble along, must catch at our hearts almost with pain, and we must stand awhile in wonder at the beauty of it. So do we become inheritors of this boundless wealth, flung with such lavish hand to rich and poor alike. And there is no curse clinging to this gold; it has been gained through no man's agony or heartbreak, and the possessor of it need not become obsessed with a desire for greater wealth, as so often happens with the baser gold for which men strive. The gold on the furze means spring and hope and beauty, and the thoughts of home, and the soft airs that stir among the tender, new-born leaves.

High up on the hillside a cottage stands, and winter is a desolate time in such a place. There are broken panes of glass through which the North wind found its way on many a bitter night, and the outlook from the windows was bleak and comfortless. But now the winter has passed and the children play about the open door; the spring sunshine creeps into every corner, and all round the cottage stretches a sea of purest gold. "Herself" was at the door, and she looked out at the glory by which she was surrounded, and I wondered whether she valued her inheritance or no. She smiled when she saw me, and said, "I do like to be lockin' at the yella flowers," and her tone was half apologetic. So I knew that an heiress lived there, though the home was so humble, and though the north wind will blow again round the walls of the old house.

But now the year is at the spring, and the swallows have built in their accustomed place under the eaves; the cuckoo is in splendid voice, and seems to know it, and the hawthorn is in flower. And the wood is carpeted with royal blue where the bluebells grow, and the hedges are full of tiny, snug, little homes where the fledglings lie. All day the larks are singing, and early morning is glorious with the praises of the birds. Then, as though such beauty were not wealth enough for any human heart, there is the pure untarnished gold on the furze.

GOLF IN JAPAN.

ENTHUSIASM FOR ALL WESTERN SPORTS.

TOKIO (By Mail).

For centuries the people of Japan had been content with their native sports, which include wrestling, judo, fencing, and archery, but, as with France and other Continental nations, a great change has taken place in recent years, and now the utmost interest is shown in all forms of Western outdoor amusements, which the Japanese people, especially the younger generation, are adopting with enthusiasm.

Baseball is actually the most popular game, having been introduced by Japanese students who had attended American Universities, and it is now widely played by clubs all over the country, and even in the Army.

Lawn tennis is an exceedingly popular game, interest is shown in football (both codes), while golf makes a strong appeal, there being several links in the vicinity of the chief cities. Rowing is another form of sport which is firmly established, and keen interest is taken in the Oxford and Cambridge boat race.

As yet the Japanese have not taken up cricket or hockey, but they specialise as keenly as the Americans, on whom they have modelled themselves, in all forms of athletics, with such success that at the recent Far Eastern Olympic Games they won the Emperor's trophy. It may be expected that they will be formidable rivals at the Olympic Games proper in years to come.

Japan's claim to be considered a nation of sportsmen appears to rest on a sure foundation. Those uninclined to indulge in the forms of sport in the category of games find relaxation in mountaineering, for which there are many opportunities, while in the winter time ski-ing and skating constitute a strong attraction.—(Reuter.)

CROWN AS A SYMBOL.

AN AMERICAN ON EUROPE'S KINGS.

"Kings no longer govern—a few of them still reign," writes Mr. Charles H. Sherrill in "The American Review of Reviews," and the writer goes on to show "how essential to the maintenance of the British Empire is the Royal House; how useful to Sweden and to Denmark are their present Kings; how much better off is the Spain of to-day for having Alphonso XIII. at its post of observation, and how unanimous is the approval of the King of the Belgians as a factor in his people's government."

"Europe to-day," says the writer, "is a large body of republics banded on the north and also on the south by a belt of kingdoms.

"Similar as are the parliamentary governments, both kingdoms and republics, very striking is the difference between what the kings and the presidents contribute to their governments.

* * *

"In one feature they are alike; they carry out the spectacular part of governmental business—an onerous burden. Theirs it is to open Parliament, to lay corner-stones of important buildings, and generally, in their presons, to demonstrate with due dignity the existence of orderly government, without which civilisation halts.

"The next step is to decide whether European kings are useful factors in the government of their respective countries, or are only figureheads. Let us begin by a glance at the British Empire, a voluntary association of self-governing Dominions plus a number of colonies. The writer ventures the assertion that if the Royal House or a Royal succession were abolished, the Empire would not long hold together.

"It is the fashion to describe British Royalty as 'the golden thread' that binds together the Empire; and there is more fact than fancy in this staement. Royalty represents historical tradition. It represents as a visble symbol national patriotism—the pride of race, that for which men die in battle.

"There is a magnificence about a king of an ancient race that makes an appeal impossible for any president of a French Republic. In a country like India, the presence at the Delhi Durbar of the King-Emperor meant for three hundred million people something that no duly elected president could evoke.

* * *

"Nor is England the only kingdom whose King is of practical utility in its 'scheme of things entire.' Some years ago Iceland desired to separate from Denmark. But Iceland had fisheries and other interests with which the Danes did not wish to lose touch. The governmental dilemma was solved by granting freedom from Denmark to Iceland on condition that both retained the same king.

"Modern Spain has been passing through a separatist crisis greater than most outsiders can grasp. Unless they are mightily mistaken, it is nothing but the personal popularity of the dashing young King that has kept this separatist movement in check.

"When is a king not a king? The European answer is easy to read. He is a king just so long as he realises that though he reigns he does not govern, and also that he must usefully serve his people's government. Such a king is a national asset. Any other sort will not last long in the Europe of to-day."

MR. BALDWIN AND PARIS.

Regarding the report that the Prime Minister had expressed his willingness to visit Paris, Reuter is informed that nothing of the sort has been proposed, and that at the present moment there is no idea of anything of the kind.

LONDON LETTER.

THE INDEMNITY BILL.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The new Government has emerged without any loss of credit from the first Parliamentary struggle. The Indemnity Bill, which will pass through the Lords without much serious opposition, was a rather ticklish measure. Englishmen have a great objection to putting the Executive in any way above the law, and this feeling was reflected in the attitude of many Conservatives towards the Bill. They wanted to release Mr. Bridgeman—personally, a most popular member—from any untoward consequences of the acts which he had committed with the best intentions, but they were determined not to encourage "Dora" to continue her existence into peace-time.

This attitude was very bluntly expressed by Sir F. Banbury—popularly, but erroneously, supposed to be the greatest reactionary in the House—and it was the knowledge of its existence, far more than the attack of the three Oppositions, that caused the Government to consent to the drastic alterations made in Committee. As the Bill was drafted, it would have furnished an indemnity for all sorts of actions committed before its passage into law, and, possibly, afterwards too. As it left the House of Commons, it is specifically limited to the actions for which condonation was originally sought.

Lord Robert Cecil.

Opinions differ as to Lord Robert Cecil's conduct of the measure. Personally, having regard to the above-mentioned difficulties, I think that he did very well. The Prime Minister would probably be well advised to give him as much work of the kind as he can; for Lord Robert possesses the kind of mind that must have constant employment, and, if not kept busy with practical work, is apt to wander off into sentimental speculations. He resembles his father, Lord Salisbury, as he was in his early days, when it was easier to get him into a Cabinet than to keep him there.

The Premier and Parliament.

Not very much was seen of the Prime Minister himself in Parliament last week. He left debate to his colleagues, while he busied himself with the many important matters requiring his attention outside the Chamber. In that respect he differed from the late Mr. W. H. Smith, to whom Sir F. Banbury rather hastily compared him the other day. "Old Morality," when Leader of the House, was invariably in his place—even when racked by the pain of his final illness—and, though he rarely intervened in debate, was always ready to seize any opportunity of getting on with the business.

Mr. Baldwin must necessarily be away from the House a good deal, but he will be wise to make his absences as few and brief as he can. Fortunately, as regards financial business he seems to have found a very useful coadjutor in Sir W. Joynson-Hicks. For a long time "Jicks" hardly did himself justice in the House, which he entered as the result of defeating Mr Churchill at a by-election in 1908. But he is very industrious and well informed, and, after being an effective critic, promises to become a useful Minister, particularly as he has latterly discovered a turn for humorous phraseology, always a help when dealing with hecklers.

A Rent Bill.

The Government evidently expects one of the biggest fights of the session when the Rent and Mortgage Interest Restriction Bill comes up for second reading; for it has allowed two days for the discussion. The first of these is Wednesday, which happens also to be the Derby Day. The attendance, therefore, is likely to be small, and the "big guns" will probably reserve themselves for Thursday. The Bill, by the way, must not be confused with the Rent Restrictions (Notices of Increase) Bill, which is now before the House of Lords. That is a retrospective measure, designed to correct the mistake in the Act of 1920. The new Bill makes arrangements for the future.

The New Member.

It would be an effective illustration of the advance of women if Mrs. Philipson were to be escorted up the floor of the House of Commons by her predecessors, Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintringham. Unfortunately, they belong to opposite parties, so official etiquette forbids, and the new member will, therefore, be introduced by two mere males. Colonel Leslie Wilson, the Chief Whip, and Sir T. Inskip, the Solicitor-General, have already offered to act as her escort.

Derby Week.

It is usual for the week-end before the Derby to be associated with rumours regarding the favourites or their jockeys, and this year has been no exception. There has been a prolific crop of reports detrimental to the favourite, and other rumours have centred upon possible changes in the mounts of the leading jockeys. Whether the various reports are well founded or not, they have formed a topic of conversation even among those who are not ordinarily interested in such matters. Interest in the Derby is as keen as ever. Nearly everybody one meets has a ticket in a sweepstake of some sort or another, from the modest sixpenny or shilling speculation, limited to the family circle or the office staff, to the club sweep or the large affairs involving thousands of pounds. There are nearly eighty horses remaining in the race, of which about twenty will actually start, and those who have drawn unknown horses in a sweepstake have been eagerly scanning the lists of probables, wondering why the name they are searching for is absent.

Broadcasting.

The announcement that a wireless broadcast station is to be opened at Aberdeen will be of interest to those who spend the autumn on the moors. The dulness sometimes associated with wet evenings at a shooting party will be relieved of some of its monotony if contact with the outside world is maintained by means of a wireless installation. For some reason or other there are parts of Scotland in which reception of wireless telephony is very bad. Signals which in other directions travel long distances fail to be well received in the Aberdeen district; so the opening of a new station there will be appreciated by those who intend to "listen in" in the autumn. Among them may be mentioned the King and Queen; for it is believed that before Their Majesties arrive at Balmoral for their holiday at the end of August, a wireless set will be installed.

Wireless broadcast affairs are full of uncertainties and disputes. The latest singer to be banned from broadcasting is Dame Nellie Melba, who was to have taken part in the broadcast performance of "La Bohème," but has now been informed that such action would be contrary to her engagement.

Canadian Cattle.

The first consignment of Canadian store cattle to be landed at Birkenhead, numbering five hundred, will be sent to farms in Suffolk, where they will be fattened for two months before being distributed for sale in the open markets. If the preliminary fattening of Canadian stores proves successful, it is probable that many of the animals landed at the various ports will be kept for two or three months before being sold. The opinion is expressed in the cattle trade, however, that it is by no means certain that sufficient improvement will be made in that time to bring in proportionately higher price.

PASSENGER STEAMER SUNK.

COLLISION IN BELFAST LOUGH.

WOMEN & CHILDREN TAKE TO BOATS.

EXCITING RESCUE SCENES.

THE cross-Channel steamer Graphic, which carried 200 passengers, and the American cargo steamer Balsam collided in Belfast Lough yesterday morning, and the former received such severe injuries that she had to be beached.

The weather was quite clear at the time, and it is thought that the accident was due to some sudden defect in the Balsam's steering gear. A huge hole was torn in the Graphic's port side, and the water poured through it in such volume that the pumps were useless.

Wireless messages for help were sent out, and the steamers Duke of Connaught and Duchess of Devonshire, which were following the Graphic up the Channel, raced to her assistance, while tugs were despatched from Belfast.

The women and children were transferred to the boats, which were picked up by the other two steamers, and the tugs arrived in time to take off the male passengers and crew.

The water on each side of the Channel is shallow, and the captain managed to turn the Graphic towards the County Down coast and beach her off Holywood. At high tide only her funnels, masts, and superstructure are visible.

The Balsam was outward bound for Glasgow with general cargo. She is a vessel of 5,104 tons. After the collision she began to leak badly, and had to be towed back to Belfast.

THE COLLISION.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN TAKE TO BOATS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Sunday.

The Belfast Steamship Company's steamer Graphic and the United States Shipping Board's cargo boat Balsam were in collision in Belfast Lough this morning. The former was badly holed amidships, and now lies partly submerged on the foreshore at Kinnegar, near Holywood.

The collision occurred at about seven o'clock, in broad daylight. The Graphic, with 200 passengers and a crew of 82 aboard, had made an uneventful trip from Liverpool, and was within four miles of her destination when the Balsam, a vessel of 5,104 tons, outward bound for Glasgow, was seen approaching.

As the steamers drew abreast the Balsam swerved suddenly, and rammed the Graphic, tearing a huge rent in her port side. Within a couple of minutes the engine room filled with water, and the vessel took an ominous list.

Most of the passengers were asleep at the time, but the sound of the impact caused them to rush on deck. While there was considerable excitement, there was nothing in the nature of a panic, and the ship's officers had no difficulty in assuring the passengers that they were quite safe.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST.

Lifebelts were served to the passengers, and the lifeboats were lowered. The women and children, of whom there were large numbers, were safely transferred from the sinking ship. The incoming passenger steamers from Fleetwood and Heysham were in close proximity at the time, and rushed to the scene.

The occupants of the lifeboats were taken aboard the Heysham boat, and everything possible was done for their comfort. Many of the Graphic's passengers who had been rudely awakened from sleep were only partly clad, and the kindness of the staff of the rescue steamer was greatly appreciated.

The Belfast Harbour Commissioners two tugs, Ridgeway and Sedgecock, were summoney by wireless, and made a surprisingly quick appearance alongside the Graphic. They took off the male passengers and crew. On a second journey the Ridgeway cleared the passengers' luggage, but the crew lost all their belongings.

GRAPHIC BEACHED.

While the work of the transferring the passengers was in progress Captain Magill, an experienced navigator, was concentrating on beaching his vessel, and in this respect he was successful. The ship was run aground about a mile and a half from shore. The captain was the last man to leave the Graphic.

At high tide the vessel is almost completely submerged, the funnels and bridge-rail alone being seen.

The Balsam also sustained damage, and had to be towed back to port.

No definite explanation of the mishap is forthcoming; but it is believed that the steering gear on the Balsam suddenly gave way. The Lough was fairly busy at the time, and the sea was moderately calm.

Hopes are entertained that the Graphic will be refloated and brought to dry dock in the course of a few days.

MANAGER'S STATEMENT.

TUGS' RACE TO THE RESCUE.

Mr. S. Berkeley, General Manager of the Belfast Steamship Company, in an interview with our Belfast Correspondent yesterday afternoon, said that earlier in the day he had seen the captain of the Graphic, who had returned to the sunken vessel. He had also seen some of the passengers, of whom there were 200 on board.

"So far as I can ascertain," he said, "the collision occurred at about 6.50 o'clock, and it was quite clear at the time. The Graphic was coming from Liverpool to Belfast, and was passing Number 6 Buoy when the Balsam collided with her.

"Our vessel was struck on the port side. Messages were sent to Belfast, and—a matter for gratification—all of them were answered speedily. The Ridgeway and the Sedgecock, belonging to the Belfast Harbour Commissioners, were quickly on the scene, and the Duchess of Devonshire, the Heysham steamer, which was passing at the time, stood by in order to give assistance, if necessary.

"A few minutes later the tug Hercules, the property of Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Ltd., with Mr. Charles Payne, C.B.E., on board, arrived, and remained in attendance while the passengers were transferred and taken to Belfast."

Mr. Berkeley added that the accident to the Graphic would not involve an interruption of the service. The Patriotic would arrive in Belfast to-day in order to maintain the ordinary sailings.

SANK IN FIVE MINUTES.

INTERVIEWS WITH PASSENGERS AND CREW.

"She struck us on the port side, and we sank in about five minutes," said one of the Graphic's crew. "We, of course, put out the lifeboats, but the tugs came alongside and took off our passengers.

"Although the Balsam was lightly laden, she smashed through our port side into the state room."

He added that one of the passengers had a remarkable escape, as he had ordered a bath to be prepared for him at the very time and at the very place where the Balsam's bows entered the Graphic. For some reason the passenger changed the venue of his bath shortly before the collision.

Following the actual collision, said this member of the crew, the Balsam cleared the Graphic, and proceeded for some distance before she was able to cast anchor. The crews agreed that the passengers behaved with great courage. A few of them rushed on deck and put on lifebelts, but when it was found that the Graphic had come to rest on a sandbank they became calm.

A PASSENGER INJURED.

So far as can be learned, only one passenger, a lady, was injured. She was thrown from her berth when the collision occurred.

In addition to the passengers the Graphic was carrying a valuable cargo, the salvage of which will present a difficult problem.

THE STEWARD'S CONCERTINA.

A steward of the Graphic said that he first saw the Balsam coming to hit them, when she was only a few yards off. After the collision the American boat went almost as far as Carrickfergus in order to save itself. The Graphic's lifeboats were launched from the starboard side, and the occupants were picked up by the tugs Ridgeway and Sedgecock, and taken to Donegall Quay, where they were well looked after by the representative of the Belfast Steamship Company. The Captain of the Graphic, Captain Magill, behaved with great presence of mind.

During the excitement one of the stewards, James Graham, continued to play a concertina.

TWICE SHIPWRECKED.

A number of the Graphic's passengers had been on board the Canadian Pacific liner Marvale, which recently foundered in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and had only arrived at Liverpool on Saturday.

The members of the Graphic's crew were received at the Sailors' Home in Corporation street, where Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Frances made everything as comfortable as possible for them.

BELFAST PASSENGERS.

Among the passengers was Mr. William Sweeney, of Cliftonville road, Belfast, a well-known printer in the city, who had been attending a Chamber of Trade conference in Plymouth. Mr. Cecil Litchfield, Permanent Secretary to the Ulster Ministry of Commerce, was also returning to Belfast.

Mr. Sweeney said that he was asleep when the collision occurred. A friend of his told him that the Balsam came up to them at an angle of about 65 degrees, and struck the Graphic amidships.

"I was knocked out of my bunk," said Mr. Sweeney, "and my stuff was flung all over the place. Stewards came along hammering at the doors, and shouted to get up, the vessel was sinking. I got up and went on deck. The boat was beginning to settle, but everyone was calm, as it was seen that there was no immediate danger. There were many women and children on board, but they and all of the passengers behaved splendidly.

A BRAVE WOMAN.

"Lifeboats were lowered, and the Heysham steamer took 22 women passengers from one of them. The Fleetwood steamer also came close. The remainder of the passengers were taken off by the tugs, and reached Belfast at 8.30, their luggage arriving at 11.30. One woman on board the Graphic refused to go into the lifeboats as she preferred to remain with her husband."

NO PANIC ON BOARD.

Mr. Robert Carswell, Marlborough Park, Belfast, said:—"I was having a cup of tea when the crash came. I jumped up and ran on deck. I saw what was wrong, and went back and dressed. When I got on deck again the Graphic had touched bottom. We just waited till the tugs came along, and we got transferred. There was no panic of any kind."

A COOL HAND.

Another passenger when seen by our Correspondent made light of his experience. "There was absolutely no panic," he declared. "As a matter of fact, I was asleep when the collision occurred, and did not hear anything. I was awakened by some person who shook me roughly, and shouted, 'Get out of bed: there has been a crash; get up or you will be drowned.'

"I got up, and the person who had alarmed me kept shouting that water was coming in, so I told him that I couldn't be drowned till I put my boots on.

"So I put them on," he added, with a laugh, "and there they are now. I got on the tug."

SIX DROWNED.

BOATING ACCIDENT OFF CUMBERLAND COAST.

It is feared that three men and three boys were drowned in a boating accident off the estuary of the river Duddon, off South Cumberland coast, yesterday afternoon.

The missing six are:—Henry Dooley (35), ore miner; John Thomas (10), Thomas Dooley (15), William Foster (35), lamplighter; Edward Kendal (15), newspaper boy, of Haverigg; and James Grenfell, lamplighter, of Millom. They were returning from Barrow in a boat, which capsized four miles from Haverigg. The sea was rough. A search was made till nightfall without result.

GERMAN DYESTUFFS SEIZED.

FRENCH JUBILANT OVER SECRET OPERATION.

PARIS, Sunday.

Jubilant articles are appearing in the French Press over the seizure by the French of dyestuffs at the Biebrich, Hoechst, and Ludwigshafen works in occupied Germany. The value of the stuffs seized is set down at two hundred million francs.

The secrecy with which the operation was planned, and the dexterity with which it was carried out, is dwelt upon. It is claimed that the French have taken off a larger quantity of dyestuffs than Germany was supposed to deliver under the Treaty, and emphasis is laid upon the point that Germany had completely stopped deliveries of dyestuffs for four months, which had thus enabled them to accumulate considerable stocks.

It is furthermore asserted that the seizure of the stocks took place in the presence of the British and Italian delegates on the Reparations Commission, who were requested to indicate the quantities destined for their country. These quantities were set aside specially marked.—(Reuter.)

RUSSIA'S REPLY.

SPECIAL INTERVIEW WITH M. TCHITCHERIN.

"LORD CURZON DESIRES A BREACH."

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

MOSCOW, Saturday.

M. Tchitcherin, who received me for an interview this evening, made a statement on the Anglo-Russian situation.

He said:—"I cannot anticipate our reply to the British Note, but I consider that Clause 7 raises the whole question of claims, as well as the questions of personal injury. This matter wrecked the Genoa and The Hague Conferences, and to raise it now is to make reconciliation impossible.

"It is also strange that the formula of the declaration on propaganda begins by asking us to pledge ourselves on behalf of the Allied and Federated Republics, including the Ukraine, which State has no Treaty with Great Britain. I cannot give a pledge on Ukraine's behalf.

"In my considered opinion, Lord Curzon desires a breach. It is strange that after the concessions on the Russian side fresh demands should be put forward now."

EARTHQUAKE IN PERSIA.

3,000 DEAD.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

ALLAHABAD, Sunday.

The scene of the disastrous earthquake in Persia, Turbati Haidari, has now been completely evacuated by the inhabitants, as the buildings are not safe.

While the total dead in the area affected is 3,000, only 45 were killed in Turbati Haidari, as the severe shocks gave the people warning to escape, and the inhabitants rushed from the tumbling houses when the first shocks occurred.

The track of the earthquake was from west to east, and the full shock was felt at Hauzisurks, where none of the 900 inhabitants survived.

It has been ordered that no bodies are to be dug out, so they will remain buried in the débris.

COLOGNE STRIKE.

MEN RETURNING TO WORK TO-DAY.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

COLOGNE, Sunday.

At a meeting held here this afternoon the Municipal employés decided to accept the offer made by the town authorities, and work will be resumed to-morrow morning.

The settlement applies to the town electricity and water departments, grave diggers, theatre employés, and sanitary section.

The tramwaymen are still debating the offer. Mr. Ben Tillett, of the Labour Party deputation, was present at the meeting of the municipal employés, and took part in the discussion. He told the men that any conflict with the British troops would only be playing into the hands of the extremists on both sides. The successful result of the negotiations is due, in part, to this excellent advice.

PATRIARCH ASSAULTED.

OUTRAGE BY GREEK MOB IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sunday.

The Greek Patriarch has addressed a complaint to the High Commissioners here regarding a regrettable incident yesterday, when Greek hooligans forced an entry into the Patriarchate, maltreated the officials, and roughly handled the Patriarch, whom they endeavoured forcibly to eject.

The Turkish police, the Patriarch states, not only failed to protect him, but one policeman actually seized his knees to help the demonstrators, while the Chief of Police declared that he could not interfere, as he was there only to prevent bloodshed.

The police, however, arrested three of the Patriarch's servants, who attempted to protect His Holiness.

The arrival of French and Italian gendarmes compelled the hooligans, who had dragged the Patriarch as far as the door of the building, to retire. They said, however, that, unless he resigned within three days, they would return and cast him out.

The Patriarch appeals to the Commissions for special measures for the protection of his life and security in the performance of his duties.

The demonstrators belong to the lowest classes of Galata, and were led by a man recently dismissed by the Patriarch for abuse of relief funds, and apparently the idea of the Turkish police in encouraging the demonstration was to foster the movement in favour of the Turkish Orthodox Church.—(Press Association Foreign Special.)

TO FIND AMUNDSEN.

ANOTHER EXPEDITION TO THE NORTH POLE.

CHRISTIANIA, Saturday.

The steamer Flint sailed to-day on its expedition to give support to Captain Amundsen, who is expected shortly to make his attempt to fly over the North Pole. The Flint, which is of 7,000 tons and carried three seaplanes, two large and one small, left Horten, near Christiania, this morning for Advent Bay, Spitzbergen, to meet there the transport of the Norwegian Navy, which has already started from Vardo. On arrival at Advent Bay the Flint will land the two large seaplanes, which will be got ready for flight to King's Bay, where they will seek a suitable place for work further North.

As already stated, the initiative in sending the expedition was taken by the Norwegian Association for Air Navigation, the President of which, Lieutenant Riiser Larsen, is known for his flight last summer round the coast of Norway.

Interviewed, Lieutenant Larsen said that it was not intended that the seaplanes should fly over the "ice desert" in an attempt to find Amundsen and his comrade. To find Amundsen on an immense ice plain without landmarks was practically impossible. It was too great a risk to send airmen haphazard over the ice, and no expert ever proposed to do so. The task of the supporting expedition, in the case of bright weather, would be to patrol the tracts along the edge of the ice where Amundsen might be expected to descend. All the experts agree that there is a great probability that the Polar flight will be interrupted between the Pole and the edge of the ice.—(Times telegram.)

GREAT BUSH FIRES.

MUCH PROPERTY THREATENED.

TORONTO, Saturday.

Bush fires are general over Northern Ontario and portions of Northern Quebec. As yet none of the chief towns has suffered, but the entire fire-ranging service and hundreds of volunteers have been organised to protect the threatened communities. Among the places in danger are White River, Hillsport, Fire River, Graham, Nipigon Reserve, Franz, Atikokan, Mabella, and Minski. At Graham, one hundred miles west of Port Arthur, people were forced to go on the lake in boats for safety. Two hundred and fifty men are fighting the fires in the White River and Franz districts. The whole of the Northern country is enveloped in smoke, but the forest officials are confident that there will be no such disaster as overwhelmed Haileybury last summer. The whole of Ottawa and the Gatineau district are also covered with a pall of smoke.—(Times telegram.)

GERMAN CRISIS.

PREPARING THE NEW REPARATIONS OFFER.

£2,500,000,000.

MORTGAGES ON RAILWAYS AND PRIVATE PROPERTY.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

Germany's financial chaos and political confusion grows hourly more dense and sensational.

The slump of the mark, wild Stock Exchange speculation, soaring food prices, and Labour's growing clamour are the disturbing factors in a situation which renders unusually difficult the carrying out of the one vital task of Dr. Cuno's Government—the drafting of a new revised reparations offer likely to appease France and bring economic peace to Europe.

Yesterday and to-day reparations conferences, attended by Ministers, Government experts, and influential outsiders, were again held, but so many interests have to be reconciled—the industrialists, the Junker leaders, and Bavaria (whose Prime Minister, Dr. von Knilling, is now in Berlin)—so many counsellors to be listened to, that it seems unlikely that the new Note will reach the Allies before the end of next week.

Apparently it is the intention of the German Government to let down a plumb line during the next few days in various capitals, and, if the result of that operation is unsatisfactory, then perhaps no Note will be sent at all.

Germany, apparently, is determined not to undergo the humiliation of another brusque rejection of a reparations scheme.

The main outline of the memorandum which it is proposed to send to the Allied Governments seems to have survived the past week's conferences here. As the memorandum will be purely an economic document, it will not contain mention of the evacuation of the Ruhr or passive resistance, although, on the other hand, no assurance will be given—since no Government could give such an assurance and survive a day in Germany—for the cessation of passive resistance, before a settlement is reached.

A five years' moratorium will be asked for, the annual reparation payments beginning in 1928 and continuing until 1965.

The total amount, including interest, to be offered, will be 50 milliards gold marks (£2,500,000,000).

As already indicated, railway debentures and private property will be mortgaged to the Government, and the creation of special monopolies and the imposition of special taxes will be proposed as guarantees for reparation payments.

Railway debentures, it seems, will be issued to the amount of ten milliard gold marks, bearing 5 per cent. interest, guaranteed by the Government, irrespective of the nature of the balance sheet.

The industrialists, mine-owners, banking houses, and landlords will be called upon to pay 5 per cent. interest in gold marks yearly on the capital of their property, which they will be compelled to pawn to the State.

From this resource the Government expects to raise an annual sum beginning at 250,000,000 gold marks, gradually rising to 500,000,000.

The proposal for the formation of an international trust company to manage and administer a reparations payment scheme is expected also to figure in the memorandum.

The new scheme seems likely to represent the best offer Germany so far has made, and, such at least is the view here, as may open the way to a settlement if France really wants reparations and not dismemberment.

BRITAIN'S CLAIMS.

BELGIAN ECONOMIST'S PLAN.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

The extraordinary statement is publised here by an American newspaper that the Prime Minister is now willing to waive all British claims on France and Italy for the repayment of their war debts, and to forego also her 22 per cent. share of the reparations payments, should an agreement with Germany be arrived at, which would guarantee Great Britain the interest and amortisation charges on her own war debt to America.

The authority quoted is M. Georges Barnich, the Belgian economist, and director of the Solvay Institute at Brussels, who has been in Paris on his return from London, where, with a number of Belgian business men, he has had important conversations.

As a result, the discussions are now, it is said, being continued with French financiers, and the possibility is put forward that his scheme may become the basis of discussion at the Franco-Belgian Conference at Brussels on Wednesday.

I have not been able to see M. Barnich to-day, but the statement attributed to him appears to need confirmation. One of his friends, who talked with him at length on his arrival from London, tells me that he did not speak of any such evolution of British opinion, and said he must hesitate to credit the statement.

M. Barnich a few days ago was interviewed here by the Eclair, and set out in detail his scheme, but recommended that France, Belgium, and Italy should approach Great Britain to ask what sacrifices she was prepared to make.

"The English people are ready to consent to the greatest sacrifices," he said. "Let the Government be as wise as its people."

M. Barnich's proposals are as follows:—Of the 132 milliards of gold marks of the London agreement, France was awarded 68 milliards. She owes 26 milliards abroad; this leaves 42 milliards, of which 26 milliards are in A and B Bonds.

Under the new scheme Germany would pay, first, 35 milliards (or £1,750,000,000 sterling in actual value). Five milliards would go to Begium, and France would receive the above 26 milliards, with, in addition, four milliards as compensation for the abandonment of the C Bonds.

Italy and the Balkan Allies would receive nothing beyond the remission of their debts to other Powers.

In the second place, Germany would pay to Great Britain annuities of 600 or 700 gold marks (say 30 or 35 millions sterling) to cover interest and amortisation charges on the British debt to the United States, and, moreover, pledge herself to pay later any sum demanded of France by America in redemption of her war debt.

SWEDEN TO INTERVENE?

PETITION TO KING GUSTAF.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

STOCKHOLM, Sunday.

The Swedish Parliamentary members of the Inter-Parliamentary Union have addressed a note to the King, requesting that Sweden should officially request the General Assembly of the League of Nations to settle the Ruhr and the reparations question, not only for France and Germany's benefit, but for all that of Europe.

EXPELLED RAILWAYMEN.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

COLOGNE, Sunday.

A pathetic sight was witnessed in Cologne yesterday, when a Rhine steamer, containing the families of expelled German railwaymen, arrived in Cologne from the French area. Women and children, to the number of about 400, surrounded by what little baggage they were able to take with them, crowded the quays, where they were taken in hand by German Red Cross men.

It is announced to-day that the French propose to evacuate the strip of territory between the British and the unoccupied zones, and the British authorities are again exercising control over the passes.

CUMANN NA GAEDHEAL.

BRANCH FORMED AT ENNISCORTHY.

TRIBUTE TO GOVERNMENT'S WORK.

A public meeting, convened by the local branch of Cumann na Gaedheal, was held in Enniscorthy yesterday for the purpose of inaugurating branches throughout the County Wexford.

Mr. T. M'Carthy, Chairman of the Enniscorthy Urban Council, presided, and in addition to the speakers there were on the platform Dr. W. H. Bowen, President of Enniscorthy Branch of the Cumann na Gaedheal; the Rev. R. Browne, C.C., and the Rev. P. Cummins, C.C., Cathedral.

Letters of apology for non-attendance were read from the Rev. R. Rossiter, Adm., and Mr. P. O'Maille, M.P.

The Rev. Father Rossiter, in his letter, said that he was in full sympathy with the objects of the meeting. He believed that the common-sense of the country was at the back of President Cosgrave and his colleagues, who had faced a very difficult task fearlessly and effectively.

The Chairman, in opening the proceedings, said that Cumann na Gaedheal had been founded by representative Irishmen, to extract all the good that was in the Treaty and to secure the united and complete independence of Ireland. In order to secure that it was necessary that they should band themselves into an active national organisation. That organisation had been founded to put in power whatever Government was elected by the will of the people—a Government that would not look after any section of the people, but would look after every section, and would not act to the detriment or disadvantage of any section. The present Government had been placed in power by the will of the Irish people, and had discharged its responsible duty well under enormous difficulties.

Mr. Milroy (Cavan) said that what they stood for all along they stood for now—viz., the unfettered unity and freedom of the Irish nation. The national organisation had been started in order that the elements of efficient administration should be made as secure and effective as the elements of government had already been made. If they concentrated upon work they could make this one of the happiest and most progressive countries in the world, and not a mere breeding-ground for potential emigrants. They had won their freedom, and the man who had attempted to set himself above the will of the Irish people would go down before the Irish people. Ireland's freedom was won at too great a cost to throw it aside at the bidding of any man. They were not a flock of sheep to be driven wherever a few political bullies would try to drive them.

"THE LAST OUNCE."

Senator M'Loughlin (Donegal) said that by the Treaty was obtained the last ounce that it was possible to get from England. If the Government went on and showed the same statesmanship as it had shown within the past three months there would shortly be no partition and no such thing as a six-county area in a united Ireland.

Dr. White, Mayor of Waterford, said that the new organisation was the old Sinn Fein organisation under a new name. It stood for the same ideals and principles as Sinn Fein stood for. Within the next five years they would have a very critical time in Ireland, and those people would not be true to Ireland who would not stand by and support the organisation. Within the last three years one of the most colossal bluffs had been carried off by the Irish people on an alien and foreign nation, in shaking off persecutions by standing shoulder to shoulder and supporting the fighting men.

Mr. C. M. Byrne, M.P. (Wicklow), said that the time had not come for class government, because he felt that such government might lead to class legislation and class strife. Appealing for support for the new organisation, he said that Wexford should return three of the five members at the next election.

Senator C. J. Irwin said that the meeting would bring cheer to President Cosgrave. It was of special significance to him, because he was descended from Wexford ancestors. He appealed for support for the Government, and advised the people not to swop horses crossing the stream.

SHOT IN A MOTOR CAR.

END OF AN ITALIAN TRIAL.

ROME, Saturday.

In the trial which has been held in connection with the shooting at Viterbo in July, 1921, of Jaromir Czernin, son of the Hon. Mrs. Beckett (Countess Czernin), seven of the accused have been acquitted. The trial lasted a month.

It may be recalled that Mrs. Beckett was motoring with her sons from Orvieto to Rome, when fire was opened on the car at Viterbo during faction fighting between Fascisti and Communists, and her son Jaromir was shot dead.

Reuter adds:—Mrs. Beckett is a sister of Lord Grimthorpe. She married Count Czernin, sometime Councillor of the Austro-Hungarian Embassy, at Petrograd in 1903, and obtained a judicial separation in the Austrian Courts in 1914. She was re-naturalised in 1922, and resumed by deed poll her maiden name of Beckett

"WET" OR "DRY" AS ELECTION CRY.

SEQUEL TO REPEAL OF ENFORCEMENT LAW.

ANOTHER STATE TO FOLLOW SUIT.

GOVERNOR SMITH TO STAND FOR PRESIDENCY.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

MADISON, WISCONSIN, Sunday.

As a result of Governor Smith signing the New York "Dry" Enforcement Repeal Bill, the "wet forces" in the Wisconsin Legislature will again attempt to pass a similar measure. The bill has been taken from the table, and will be placed in the calendar on Thursday next.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Sunday.

The repeal of the State dry enforcement law by Governor Smith upsets all political calculations pertaining to 1924.

The leaders of the wet forces are convinced that modifications of the Volstead Act will, in consequence of Governor Smith's action, be the paramount issue in the 1924 campaign, while the Prohibitionists concede that possibility.

It is admitted by all Democrats that prohibition will be the principal issue upon which the Democratic Party will make its next campaign, and a bitter fight is foreseen with the dry factions.

The Press throughout the country is divided in its comment upon the New York Executive's action, but it is universally admitted that he has brought the main issue to the front of attention.

Federal prohibition agents, two hundred strong, are expected to swoop down upon New York immediately to take on the work of the dry enforcement singlehanded. Doubt is expressed as to their success.

It is pointed out that if the combined State and Federal forces could not enforce the law, it is not likely that the Federal forces will succeed alone.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

ALBANY, NEW YORK, Sunday.

Governor A. Smith's action in signing the bill repealing the Mullen Gage State Prohibition Enforcement Law was accompanied by the statement that he took the step in the interests of the right of the State, but that the Federal prohibition law remains in force in New York, and will be strictly enforced by New York officers of the law.

Of particular interest and significance, however, is the part of the Executive's statement which sounds the call for a new policy in prohibition enforcement, representing the middle course between the "fanatical wets and the fanatical drys," a declaration which may be regarded as the platform upon which Governor Smith may become candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Governor Smith proposes that the individual States be permitted to define what shall be designated intoxicating liquor, so that some States may have light wines and beer, while others may, if they choose, be as dry as a painted desert.

The Governor said that the whole treatment of the prohibition law shows marked hypocrisy, and that the country is looking for a new ideal.

Governor Smith denies that he advocates anything that will infringe upon the provisions of the 18th Amendment, but he regards the one-half of the one per cent. alcoholic content definition of intoxicating liquor in the Volstead Act as dishonest and nonsensical.

With the State prohibiton law abolished, it will still not be legal to manufacture, sell, or distribute intoxicating liquor in New York, the Governor asserts; for to do so would still be a violation of the Federal law. The police may make arrests, but the Federal Court must do the prosecuting.

By a stroke of his pen, Governor Smith has placed himself in the forefront of the field of candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, and there is little or no doubt that he will go to the National Convention as the choice, not only of New York, but of other States, desiring a modification of the Volstead Act.

The dry champions are boiling with wrath over the repeal of the State enforcement law, and are vowing vengeance against Governor Smith and every State Senator and Assemblyman who vote for the bill.

"WET" SHIPS BARRED.

NO ALCOHOL WITHIN U.S. TERRITORIAL WATERS.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.

The Treasury has issued Shipping Liquor Regulations, based on a literal reading of the Supreme Court's decision, which is to the effect that no liquors on board ship are permitted to enter territorial waters. Except for an exemption granted to medicinal liquors, the usual immunity for diplomatic liquor, and the privileges allowed to foreign warships, the regulations do not permit the entry of alcoholic beverages.

On behalf of the Treasury, it is declared that the Court's decision will be literally applied, and that any hope of meeting the requests of foreign Powers for amelioration would lie on legislation by the next Congress.—(Reuter.)

LAUSANNE CONFERENCE.

BULGARIAN DELEGATE BUSY, WHILE OTHERS GO TO A FETE.

LAUSANNE, June 3.

To-day has been a day of rest for the Conference, and many members of the delegations have profited by the occasion to visit the Narcissus Fête, at Montreux, which this year is a great success.

Although the Conference had a day off the Bulgarian delegate, M. Todoroff, acting on instructions from his Government, addressed to-day a letter to the representatives of the inviting Powers, declaring that the Karagatch settlement leaves unchanged the point of view of the Bulgarian Government in regard to Bulgarian access to the Aegean.

The letter adds that the Bulgarian Government persists in the belief that only an outlet across Bulgarian, or autonomous, territory would render the carrying out of the Neuilly Treaty possible and practicable.

The letter concludes:—"Any other solution would be contrary to justice and ethnographic principle, and a good understanding between the Balkan Powers, while cancelling the only provision in the Treaty of Neuilly, is distinctly favourable to Bulgaria."—(Press Association Foreign Special.)

ABBEVILLE.

WAR MEMORIAL UNVEILED.

ABBEVILLE, Sunday.

To-day Marshal Foch, representing the French Army, the British Minister in Paris (Mr. Phipps), representing King George; and Lord Cavan, who represented the British Army, went to the Franco-British Cemetery, where 2,555 British soldiers who fell in the war are buried. Marshal Foch unveiled the Cross of Sacrifice.

Mr. Phipps, in his speech, said that the blood which had been so generously shed in common would not have been shed in vain if it served to seal, in a permanent manner, that Entente which saved the world in the war, and of which the final goal ought to be the establishment of a just and lasting peace, permitting two great peoples to carry ever onward the torch of civilisation and humanity.

Marshal Foch afterwards unveiled the Abbeville War Memorial.

Marshal Foch, Lord Cavan and Colonel Joostens, representing the Belgian Army, spoke.—(Reuter.)

BULGARIA TRANQUIL.

Reports which have appeared in the foreign Press relative to revolutions or disorders in Bulgaria are absolutely without foundation. The country is enjoying absolute tranquility.—(Reuter's Sofia Correspondent.)

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

RUSSIAN REALITIES.

RETURNING SANITY.

The Times publishes to-day the first of a series of articles from an exceptionally well-informed Correspondent on the present situation in Russia, and, in the course of a leading article upon it, observes:—Bolshevism has done immense harm to Russia, but Russia is encroaching on Bolshevism. The real Communists are few, and their numbers are shrinking; even the interested pretence of sympathy with Communism is now passing out of fashion. In local Soviets and in central administrative departments men who are not Communists, but who possess sound sense and administrative or commercial experience, have been trying to work on practical lines. Their influence is growing.

A critical point has been reached in the evolution of Bolshevism. In the uncertainty caused by the enforced retirement of Lenin, by the exhaustion of the plundered hoard of Russian wealth, and by the steady encroachment of native Russian instincts and impulses upon the Bolshevist system, there has been a violent resurgence of frightened extremism. The vast expanse of Russia, with its millions who are struggling to live a varied life of their own, is, in great trial, and by persistent effort, evading the Communist purpose. The tiny oligarchy groping in the vacuum, caused by the loss of their leader, are desperately trying to recover and ensure their control. This singular spectacle is worthy of the closest attention.

We have not the slightest doubt that the British Government have done well to remind these bankrupt adventurers of the limits to which they can go, as far as this country is concerned. There is, of course, not the slightest question of our making war or encouraging war upon the Russian people. On the contrary, any suggestion of war would be strongly opposed as a dangerous futility by every section of the British nation. There are some indications that Lord Curzon's strong Note has already had a sobering effect upon the headlong extremists of Moscow, and that is so much to the good.

REPARATIONS.

RUMOURS IN PARIS.

The Times Paris Correspondent telegraphed last night:—As is customary on the eve of any inter-Allied conversations, there are many rumours of plans which are being prepared in Brussels, in Rome, and even in London. Officially the meeting of French and Belgian Ministers at Brussels next Wednesday is to be what the French call a "council of administration." It would appear impossible this time for the French to avoid touching upon vital issues. The desire of Belgium for speedy results and for an understanding with Great Britain with regard to a final reparation settlement, and especially with regard to the method of treating the expected German Note, cannot be ignored. France cannot restrict herself to the narrow and negative programme which she continually puts forward, and outside which she has hitherto permitted no discussion.

The suggestion that after the French and the Belgians have reached an agreement Mr. Baldwin might be prepared to come to Paris to confer with M. Poincaré on the problem of reparations has naturally aroused interest. It would not be regarded as surprising if Mr. Baldwin or Lord Curzon should express a wish to have conversations with the French Prime Minister before a reply to the German proposals is sent. The mistake committed last time, when France rushed in with her reply completely rejecting the German Note even as a starting point for negotiations, can hardly be repeated.

PENSIONS VOTE.

THE SEVEN YEARS' LIMIT.

The Times in its Political Notes says:—To-day the House of Commons will discuss the second reading of the Agricultural Rates Bill. The Labour Party will oppose the bill. Mr. Ian Macpherson will suggest that the bill should be divided into two separate measures, one dealing with England and Wales, the other with Scotland.

To-morrow the Ministry of Pensions Vote will be taken, when the first speaker for the Opposition will be Mr. Ian Macpherson, who was Pensions Minister in the Coalition Government. It is understood that one of the main lines of criticism will be the seven years limit, which means that no claim for a pension can be considered for any illness which occurs more than seven years after the expiration of war services. As a matter of fact it can be shown that this is a very elastic rule, which has already been broken on many occasions, when hardships might otherwise have been inflicted on a claimant. Major Tryon, the Pensions Minister, proposes to make a statement as to the general position; for it is felt that the Ministry has now enough information on which to form a definite idea of the pension needs of the future.

TRIAL BY JURY.

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S VIEW.

Lord Birkenhead, in a letter to The Times, replies to Judge Atherley Jones's recent criticisms on the legislation relating to trial by jury as embodied in the Criminal Justice Administration Bill and the Administration of Justice Bill. He says he writes in order to give a simple explanation of those bills as against the comments of Judge Atherley Jones. Every care has been taken in framing the new legislation to avoid the evils of which the judge complains. The rights which the public possess in the jury system have been maintained and extended beneficially, and there is no reason to fear that any injustice or inconvenience will result from the operation of the new Acts. The criticisms appear to have been based on the hypothesis that economy and efficiency can only be obtained at the expense of the prisoner, which is a wholly fallacious supposition.

THE DERBY.

TOWN GUARD GALLOPS.

The Daily News says:—The item of news that will be discussed everywhere to-day is that Town Guard is all right. The Derby is only two days ahead, and rarely has the Epsom fever developed with more virulence. For the moment there is nothing to suggest that there will be any further untoward event, but he would be a bold man who would wager that there will be no other "sensation" before the "off" on Wednesday afternoon. There may be some remarkable developments in the Derby market to-day. It was a question of marking time during the week-end, for the bottom was knocked out of the wagering owing to the adverse rumours concerning Town Guard. It is not at all unlikely that there will be heavy investments on him to-day, with a reaction affecting the prices offered against other horses.

THE KING.

Referring to the celebration of the King's birthday, the Daily Express says:—What the nation and the Empire in general realise is that King George has been a worker all the time. Within the bounds permitted by the Constitution he has done his utmost, and done it exceedingly well. Probably no British Monarch has ever mixed so unaffectedly and so frequently with the people in all parts, not only in Great Britain but of the Empire.

GREATEST DEMOCRATIC PICNIC.

The Westminster Gazette says:—Behind the races and the activities of horses, jockeys, bookmakers, and plungers there is the machinery of, perhaps, the biggest and most democratic picnic of the year. Moralists and politicians will never get their focus about society right until and unless they accept such events as Derby Week as an expression of the gregariousness of mankind. A bishop has stated that he is going down to the racecourse to see the crowd for himself, and it is to be hoped that he will give us the benefit of his observations. But whether he studies the rich or poor, the "vulgar" or the mannered, on the racecourse, what ought to strike our good bishop when he attends a popular race meeting is the good order, the good humour, and the rough, ready-made smiling philosophy that animate most of our people in all their collective enjoyments.

ROYALIST PLOTS.

UNEXPECTED CRISIS IN FRANCE.

PREMIER'S RETURN TO PARIS.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

M. Poincaré has returned abruptly from Alsace to deal with the unexpected crisis which has arisen in connection with the alleged existence of a Royalist plot and activities against the French Republic. M. Manrico Mannoury, Minister of the Interior, whose charges of Royalist activities have thrown the Chamber into great excitement, has been in conference with M. Poincaré since his return.

From the Ministry of the Interior it is learned that "justice is taking care of the Royalist cases," and the search of the houses of suspects is continuing. I understand that the Premier, however, considers M. Mannoury somewhat drastic in his speech, accusing the Royalists of being a menace to the Republic. M. Mannoury admits that there are over two hundred names of the chiefs and organisers of Royalist bands now in the hands of the Ministry of Justice. Further arrests of these named are expected.

The Royalist movement in France, almost extinct in 1914, had a second boom after the war, and now counts more than 200,000 active members of the organisation, according to M. Leon Daudet, the Royalist leader. The latest documents seized give proof that the organisation is modelling itself on the lines of the Fascist movement, and desires to administer its own "correction" to all political opponents. Like the Ku Klux Klan, the French Royalists justify themselves on the score of patriotism, declaring that ordinary justice is inadequate.

Concerning the increasingly frequent stories of Royalist attacks on unarmed men, the Royalist explanations is "just correction administered; as the Government is inert we act." In view of the fact that the Royalists control about thirty votes in the Chamber of Deputies, it is not considered likely that they will be suppressed quite so pitilessly as the Government has promised. Nevertheless, the Department of the Interior has renewed its promises to make further arrests and to proceed with further searches for papers and documents.

RESTORED TO ITALY.

VICISSITUDES OF FAMOUS BORSO D'ESTE BIBLE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

The famous Bible of the Borso d'Este, illuminated by artists of the 15th century, has just been restored to Italy after an absence of over 60 years.

Formerly owned by the Dukes of Mordane, the Bible, during the war between Austria and Italy in 1859, fell into the hands of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, and then became the property of the late Emperor Francis Joseph. During his stay in Switzerland the ex-Emperor Karl, being short of money, sold it to a Paris antiquary, and it was about to be bought by an American banker when a rich Milan manufacturer acquired it for £50,000.

FRANCO-AMERICAN COMRADESHIP.

M. POINCARE AND GERMAN PROPAGANDA.

CHAUMONT, Sunday.

The monument which M. Millerand has inaugurated in Chaumont, the headquarters of General Pershing, from 1917 to 1919, symbolises Franco-American comradeship. Besides M. Millerand and M. Poincaré, those present included Mr. Herrick, American Ambassador, Marshals Pétain and Joffre, Major-General Sir Charles Sackville West, representing King George, and representatives of the Belgian, Italian and Japanese Monarchs.

After M. Millerand had unveiled the monument, Mr. Herrick read a message from President Harding, expressing the hope that Franco-American friendship might endure and grow strong as the years pass, and that prosperity might ever attend revivified France.

M. Millerand, in his speech, said that France had never had the absurd and impious idea of founding her freedom on the domination of neighbouring peoples. He added:—We respect the liberty of others and we want ours respected. Since the war ended, he continued, France had had no other object than the maintenance of re-established right and respect for Treaties. He added:—If we are in the Ruhr, it is solely German disloyalty that has taken us there. Without the spirit of conquest or vengeance we want the vanquished country, which started the war, to keep its engagements and to repair its crimes. The will of France, based on justice, will not yield.

M. Poincaré said that if America had not followed up her war co-operation so completely as they had hoped, and had fallen back upon herself from the agitated politics of the old world, she had not remained indifferent to the efforts which France had been making to ensure, with her European Allies, especially those more directly menaced by the Germanic peril, the pacific realisation of the Treaty of Versailles. She had not allowed herself to be diverted from her natural sympathies by the post-war propaganda of Germany. It was a shameless fiction to pretend, as the emissaries of the Reich did every day, that the Alsace-Lorraine problem had not been solved by the Treaty, and that the liberated provinces were not attached by their whole soul to France. America did not believe for a moment, despite persistent German allegations, that France and Belgium were impelled by the madness of conquest. The United States, who had never consulted anyone but themselves respecting the defence of their essential interests, would hardly comprehend how France, not having obtained in the continual enforcement of the peace all the co-operation she had hoped for, should hesitate about taking, within the limits of the Treaty, the measures necessary to compel Germany to keep her repeated engagements. It was not to consecrate such denial of justice that fifty thousand children of America fell on French battlefields.—(Reuter.)

STREET TRADING IN DUBLIN.

A NUISANCE AND A BLOT ON THE CITY.

UNOCCUPIED STALLS AT IVEAGH MARKET.

In recent years there has been such a development of street trading in Dublin that the matter can no longer be ignored or fenced with, but must be faced squarely as a blot on the city and the nuisance which it is. Although the police are, at the moment, busy with prosecutions under the Dublin Police Act of 1842, their zeal is more wasted than otherwise since the paltry fines inflicted on offenders have not the slightest effect towards making them mend their ways.

There is ample accommodation at the Iveagh Markets for these street-traders, but the suggestion that they should utilise it is indignantly scouted on the ground that customers would not come to them if they removed their "pitches" from the streets. So in South Great George's street, Moore street, Camden street, Parnell street, Henry street, Talbot street, along the North Strand, and at certain bridges in and around the city the vendors of fish, flesh, cabbages, fruit, and flowers, to mention only the perishables, for there are also curbstone dealers in the hardware line, are squatted in their hundreds, unwilling to move, and convinced that they cannot be shifted. It has only been by reason of the constant vigilance of the police that O'Connell Bridge has not been captured for the "trade," and even as it is, an outpost in the shape of a couple of fruit stalls manages to maintain ground there.

MAGISTRATES' SUGGESTIONS.

In November, 1921, Messrs. Lupton and Cooper, city magistrates, made some suggestions with regard to regulating street-trading, which was at that time commencing to encroach on the main thoroughfares and the best residential streets. The magistrates held that no stand should be allowed in residential streets, and that if flowers were to be vended the same method should be followed as in the case of a pedlar's goods. Stands or fixed structures should not be permitted on the main thoroughfares, although exception was made for stands at such points as Nelson Pillar, where the line of traffic would not be disturbed. But even at such excepted points the traders would have to remove their wares at any time the public convenience so required.

In other streets trading would be permissible provided the goods were displayed on a barrow or cart, four feet by three, and which was not drawn up nearer than twenty-five feet to the corner of the street. These traders would have to keep a space clear for the loading and delivery of goods before whatever premises they might be standing. These suggestions are rarely carried out. If there was any concerted action on the part of the traders to act in accordance with them their activities might not have come to be regarded as a grave nuisance to be vigorously dealt with.

But it must be remembered that the above suggestions of Messrs. Lupton and Cooper are not regulations, and cannot be enforced as such by the police. As the suggestions have not been met, and cannot be enforced, the police can only fall back on the powers they already have, and which would be sufficient for all practical purposes, if penalties were imposed which would make the offending parties think well before repeating the offence.

WOMEN AND GIRL TRADERS.

Most of this street trading is in the hands of women and girls, and, of course, it must be admitted that these people are making an effort to earn their living honestly. It would be a disastrous state of affairs if they could not continue to provide for themselves by honest and worthy means. No thinking person would for a moment suggest that their means of livelihood be taken from them, or even curtailed. All that is needed is that these traders be made to respect the rights of the citizens in the thoroughfares, the rights of shopkeepers, with whom they compete at cut prices, and who are burdened with very heavy rents and rates, and, in most cases, wages bills; and, lastly, that they be made recognise that the streets may not be made unsanitary and unsightly, littered with decayed vegetables and fish, inodorous from all sorts of fumes, simply for their benefit and at their sweet will. If these traders would only carry their wares on vehicles or movable stands, observe the rules of fair play and cleanliness, all would wish success to their enterprise.

THE IVEAGH MARKET.

The Iveagh Market, to which the traders show such antipathy, was built at a cost of £50,000 mainly to accommodate them. One section of the building is used as an old clothes market, but there is vacant space for at least forty stalls. Before being exposed for sale, all old clothing is disinfected free of charge. There is also a market for fish, fruit and vegetables, and here thirty-four of the up-to-date fish slabs are vacant at the moment, and there is room for very many more fruit and vegetable traders. All the accommodation and facilities, almost amenities, of this market are available to traders at the nominal charge of 2d. a day.

When all the expenses of the market for last year were met, including salaries, painting, repairs and coal, the outlay came to £4,674, to meet which there was an income of £2,150. If the traders who are daily making some of the principal streets of the city unsightly, and almost unfit for business and pleasure, would betake themselves to the Iveagh Market, they would do themselves, the market and the city a good turn, and, incidentally, give their customers a wholesomer, cleaner service than is possible in the gutter.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.

BIG GATHERING AT KINGSTOWN.

About 5,000 people took part yesterday afternoon in a temperance demonstration at the People's Park, Kingstown, under the auspices of the St. Michael's Pioneer and Temperance Association. After a religious Service in St. Michael's Parish Church a procession was formed of Pioneer and Father Mathew Associates, in which over 2,000 men and women took part. The procession paraded the principal streets of the town, being accompanied by three bands.

The Rev. Father Doyle, Kingstown, presided at the meeting, and among those on the platform was Mr. J. M. Devitt, Chairman of the Urban District Council.

The Rev. Father Flynn congratulated them on their magnificent procession and demonstration. Their determination was that each one of them should do something to further temperance work. They would rather see their numbers reduced a good deal than see a sham or a fraud wearing one of their honoured badges. They wanted them to help their weaker brothers and sisters to become self-respecting citizens. They had 700 members in the Dun Laoghaire Branch, and if each one did his or her duty next year they might number 1,400. (Applause.)

The Rev. Father Aloysius, O.S.F.C., congratulated the organisers of the demonstration, and said that Father Mathew, in the year 1843, addressed a great meeting in Dun Laoghaire in a secluded place belonging to a Mr. Gresham, opposite Mr. Daly's hotel and the harbour mouth, and they would be glad to know that the old tongue was spoken in Dun Laoghaire then, and that Father Mathew administered the temperance pledge in Irish as well as in English. (Applause.)

Mr. Lang, Secretary of the Central Branch of the Pioneer Association, also spoke.

The Rev. Joseph Gleeson, Chaplain to the Forces, described his hearers as comrades of the greatest war that had ever been fought in Ireland and for Ireland. It was a war for the redemption of the Irish people from slavery. They were the slaves of the greatest despotism that ever cursed the country. They were going to have a General Election, and he was not afraid or ashamed to say that he did not care what Government was in power, because, as far as he could see, from the temperance point of view, it was a case of tweedledum and tweedledee. It was all the same whom they had in power, because the real power behind the Throne and behind the whole business enslaving the Irish people was the drink traffic. They should vote at the General Election for men who were prepared to bring in measures of temperance reform. (Applause.)

A vote of thanks to the speakers concluded the proceedings.

A VAST DIOCESE.

SOUTH AMERICAN MISSIONARY WORKERS NEEDED.

The Bishop of the Falkland Islands is at present in Dublin, where he hopes to arouse interest in the missionary field of South America, and especially in the activities of the South American Missionary Society. He will remain in the city a week, during which he will fulfil several speaking engagements.

Preaching at Christ Church Cathedral yesterday, he said that his diocese stretched along the whole west coast of South America. The first attempt at missionary work in that part of the globe was consecrated by the heroic death of Captain Allen Gardiner, a pioneer who lost his life while endeavouring to bring the Gospel to the Patagonians, a race which was in type one of the lowest that possibly could exist. The South American Missionary Society was founded to assist the labours of Mr. Stirling, a man who wielded tremendous influence over the Indians, and who in 1869 became the first Bishop of the Falkland Islands.

At the present time there was a crying need for an extension of missionary work all through the diocese. More workers should be sent out to aid the British missionaries in the field if the spiritual wants of the many thousands so far unprovided for were to be given anything like proper attention.

MISS MᴬᶜSWINEY AND PEACE.

At the weekly meeting in Sackville street, Dublin, under the auspices of the Women's Prisoners' Defence League, yesterday, Miss Mary MacSwiney said that the dumping of arms did not mean surrender. There would be no peace while one iota of the authority of the British King remained in Ireland. Miss Ffrench Mullen and Mrs. Maloney also spoke.

A BRIDE'S TRUNK.

TAKEN TO LINER BY AEROPLANE.

The story of a bride's missing trousseau trunk and its subsequent despatch by special aeroplane, at a cost of £40, to catch an outward-bound liner, was unfolded at Liverpool on Saturday.

Among the passengers booked by the Cunard liner Carmania, for New York, were Mr. and Mrs. Dewing, who were returning from their honeymoon to Sartford, Connecticut. They had been staying in London, and were about to travel to Liverpool by boat train from Euston. Five minutes before the departure of the train the discovery was made that a trunk other than their own had been sent from the hotel by mistake.

Quick decisions had to be made, but, owing to its valuable contents, a suggestion that the trunk should be forwarded by the next steamer, was not entertained. The proposal of a Cunard Company representative, that an aeroplane should be engaged to deliver the trunk at Liverpool appealed to Mr. and Mrs. Dewing, and this was accordingly arranged. The young couple travelled to Liverpool by train.

In the meantime the proper trunk had been found and taken by fast motor car to Stag-lane Aerodrome, Edgware, where Captain F. C. Barnard was waiting with a de Havillard machine. The trunk, however, was too big for the machine, and had to be cut in two.

One half was placed on board, and the contents of the other half were bundled into a sack. The aeroplane left at 2.20 p.m., and landed at Aintree Aerodrome at 4.10 p.m. Another motor car was waiting, and took the trousseau to the landing stage, and placed it on board the Cunarder five minutes before the vessel sailed.

MOORE STREET ROBBERY.

YOUNG MEN ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

Patrick M'Anespie, Middle Gardiner street; William Fitzgerald, Hill street; James Maxwell, Grenville street, Dublin, described as being of no occupation, have been arrested by Criminal Investigation Department men. Hanlon and Co., Moore street, Dublin, when £35 and some jewellery were stolen. John Lynch, Temple street, has also been arrested in connection with the affair.

An excellent programme of vocal and instrumental music had been arranged by the committee, including selections from Beethoven, Chopin, Brahms, Paderewski, Stanford, Elgar, Schubert, and Larchet.

The contributors, whose performances were marked by a high standard of excellence, included Miss Madge Bradbury (piano solo), Miss Ivy Furlong (songs), Miss Eileen Cayne and Miss Annie Brereton (violin and piano duet), Miss Jeannie Russell (piano solo), Mr. Thomas G. Wallis (songs), Miss Nancie Lord, Miss May Lord, and Miss D. Thompson (instrumental trio), Miss Alice Bell (songs), Miss Rhona Clark (piano solo), and a piano and vocal sextette by Misses Lillian Whittaker, Norah Fannin, Edith Boxwell, and Alice Bell, Messrs. Edward Fannin and Alfred Birch. Miss Dorothy Stokes and Miss Eileen Buckley acted as accompanists.

TOWN TENANTS' RIGHTS.

MR. COGHLAN BRISCOE AND RENT BILL PROPOSALS.

Addressing a meeting under the auspices of the Town Tenants' League at Mountmellick recently, Mr. Coghlan Briscoe said that town tenants were faced with a crisis which, if not met promptly, would rivet more tightly than ever on their necks the antiquated claims of ownership which had been built up on a code of laws passed by landlords in a British landlord Parliament.

It was reported, he said, that the bill to be introduced in Dail Eireann would give landlords power to raise rents even higher than permitted under the old decree of the Dail, and that speculating landlords and jobbers were to be given authority to turn tenants out when they purchased the houses they occupied. And landlords were to be allowed to raise rents to meet the cost of repairs.

The question of repairs, in his opinion, went to the very root of the whole matter. The law as it stood compelled the landlord to put his houses in habitable condition, and he was liable to prosecution for failure to do so, but the new proposal would saddle the tenant with all the responsibility for repairs.

To meet the new position the Town Tenants' League had outlined a plan of campaign which comprised fixity of tenure, the right of the free sale of the tenant's interest, the setting up of fair rent arbitration courts, the empowering of local authorities to carry out repairs in default by the landlord, and the right of all occupying tenants to acquire the fee simple of their holdings.

GREAT POWER UNIT

STARTED BY THE PRINCE OF WALES.

A 40,000 h.p. generator, the largest power generating unit in the United Kingdom, was started on Saturday by the Prince of Wales at the electricity works of the Rotherham Corporation. This colossal generating set comprises a 40,000 horse-power turbine, running at 1,500 revolutions per minute, and driving a very large electrical generator. The turbine is capable of developing power equal to the united energy of two hundred and eighty thousand men, and the electrical generator will give an alternating current supply of 30,000 kilowatts at 6,600 volts, sufficient for all the electrical requirements of a large town. Both the steam turbine and the electrical generator were designed and built at the Rugby works of the British Thomson-Houston Co., Ltd. The combined unit weighs nearly 300 tons.

CORK SHOOTING INCIDENT.

In the vicinity of Patrick street, Cork, on Saturday morning about 11.30, some shots were fired.

Two young men, said to have been concerned in the shooting, rushed through Drawbridge street into Patrick street, and were pursued by Criminal Investigation Department men. One of them ran down Merchant street, and the other down Maylor street. In his flight one of the men threw his revolver into a house before he was captured. The revolver was recovered later.

CHILDREN IN A BOILER.

The cries of terrified children attracted the attention of passers-by to a church at Pontypool on Saturday, and a man who entered a door at the rear found two little girls in the boiler of a heating apparatus. One was dead, but the other revived after artificial respiration had been applied. The children are the daughters of a widow who is the caretaker of the church. The mother has been arrested.

ST. JAMES'S PALACE.

SMART PAINTING FOR DUBLIN.

This Royal Palace, the National Gallery, and London's smartest structures have been done with the paint "Heolin," because of its adamantine solidity and new and beautiful effects. It reduces labour 33 per cent., making 1 of the 3 usual coats sheer surplusage—a huge saving, as labour absorbs 16/8 in each £1 a paint job costs. Any decorator, whose customer strictly specifies it, can now use "Heolin." Invented by the "old masters" of paint creation, the famous Hadfields (Merton), Ltd.; the wholesalers are Wm. Preston, Ltd., Great Brunswick street, Dublin, well known for "Prestons" high-grade varnishes, as supplied to the great railways.—(Advt.)

SEQUEL TO BOYNE OUTRAGE.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY UNDER ARMS.

A correspondent states that after the destruction of the Boyne Obelisk on Thursday morning last, about 50 men, armed with rifles, broke into the house of Mr. E. P. Heany, about 100 yards from the obelisk. They went to the stairs and shouted, "Is Heany there?" Mr. Heany, who lives alone, and is 83 years of age, went down, and one of the men shouted, "We want your money; we know you have plenty of money, so you must produce it."

"I will give you no money," said Mr. Heany.

"Well," said the leader, presenting a revolver, "unless you give us your money, we will shoot you. We know you have it."

The leader again put the revolver to Mr. Heany's head and said, "We are going to shoot you if you don't give us the money."

"I don't care a damn whether you do or not; fire away," said Mr. Heany.

This disconcerted the raiders. They consulted together, and, as if they feared the arrival of National troops, they hurried away, leaving Mr. Heany's money untouched.

FREE STATE POSTAGE.

EVASION OF RATES.

The current issue of Iris an Puist says:—"Cases have come under notice where firms and persons resident in the Free State have sent packets to be posted outside the Free State, so as to evade the higher postage rates—thus defrauding the Free State Revenue. A watch should be kept, as far as practicable, for such cases, and any that come under notice should be reported to the Secretary, with a statement of the number observed, the name and address of the sender, if available, and, if possible, a specimen circular, card, or advertisement, where such documents have been manufactured outside the Free State."

AIRMEN'S PLUNGE.

MARVELLOUS ESCAPE FROM FLOODED MINE-HOLE.

Flying in a "Bristol" aeroplane from Salisbury on Saturday, two officers, Lieutenant Flint, R.A.F., the pilot, and Lieutenant Wilfred Brennan, of the King's Own Regiment, had miraculous escapes from death when the machine crashed into a mine hole at Westbury, Wilts, after striking and demolishing a chimney stack. The mine hole, containing about seven feet of water, was on land belonging to the Westbury Ironworks Company.

As both men were strapped in the aeroplane, they were in a desperate plight, as they were completely submerged for some moments before they succeeded in freeing themselves. Lieutenant Brennan was on the point of collapse by the time his head appeared out of the water, and was extricated by F. Owen, a railway porter, who jumped, fully clothed, into the water to help the drowning officer.

The crash is said to be due to the pilot circling at too low an altitude while seeking a landing place. Both men, though not seriously hurt, were removed to the Westbury Cottage Hospital.

IMPERIAL PRODUCTS.

ADVICE TO FREE STATE.

Writing in the Spectator on the display of Empire food products during "Empire Shopping Week" in London, Mr. Evelyn Wrench says:—

"Doubtless there were eggs and butter from the Irish Free State, although they escaped my attention; but then, perhaps, the Irish farmer who makes a living by selling his products to the British market is not sufficiently interested in the British Commonwealth to care about an Empire shopping week! For the manufacture of tobacco by British firms in Dublin has, during the past fortnight, been severely criticised by some Irish super-patriots as one more proof of Ireland's subjugation to the 'foreigner.' What would happen, I wonder, if the British paterfamilias adopted the slogan, 'No foreign-grown food on my breakfast table—no Irish bacon, butter or beef for me'? Is it not conceivable that we should soon be reading special resolutions of the Dail concerning another injustice to Ireland? If my fellow-countrymen across the Channel would only realise that trade is barter, and that every hundred pounds' worth of imports from Great Britain means broadly a hundred pounds' worth of Irish produce exported, how much better it would be for all concerned! The sooner Southern Ireland stops talking about 'foreign' capital, and gets all the money she can from Threadneedle street or elsewhere for her development, the better. The growing interdependence of world trade is a doctrine which has not yet penetrated into the minds of some Irishmen; to them the ideal to be aimed at would appear still to be trade with 'ourselves alone.'"

HIGH RATES IN KERRY.

TO BE PAID IN ONE SUM.

Mr. Commissioner Monahan has made the following rates for Kerry for the year ending 31st March, 1924:—Cahirciveen—7s. 10d. on land and 10s. 5d. on buildings, as against, respectively, 4s. 3d. and 6s. 10d. last year and 13s. 11d. and 16s. 8d. the previous year. Dingle—8s. 1d. on land and 10s. 9d. on buildings, as against 4s. 10d. and 7s. 6d. last year and 16s. 2d. and 19s. the previous year. Kenmare—7s. on land and 7s. 8d. on buildings, as against 2s. 10d. and 5s. 6d. last year and 12s. 11d. and 15s. 8d. the previous year. Killarney—7s. 2d. on land and 9s. 4d. on buildings, as against 4s. 2d. and 6s. 5d. last year and 13s. 11d. and 16s. the previous year. Listowel—9s. 11d. on land and 12s. 4d. on buildings, as against 5s. 9d. and 8s. 3d. last year and 15s. 9d. and 18s. 3d. the previous year. Tralee—10s. 3d. on land and 12s. 8d. on buildings, as against 7s. 4d. and 9s. 10d. last year and 13s. and 16s. 3d. the previous year.

The Commissioner explained in detail the disparity between the rates for the three years, the high rate of three years ago being due to the withheld grants, the low rate last year being due to the payment of these grants, and making that rate the lowest struck since 1917. Not alone was that relief absent this year, but it was necessary to make further provision for work on the roads. He added that this year's rate should be paid in one sum, and not, as hitherto, in two moieties.

THEATRE MUSICIANS.

ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED.

Musicians employed in the Gaiety Theatre, the Theatre Royal, the Olympia Theatre, the Tivoli Theatre, and the Queen's Theatre, Dublin, have received notices terminating their engagements after Saturday, 16th June. On and after Monday, June 18th, the terms of employment for the members of the Irish Transport Workers' Union, the theatre managers intimate, shall be those contained in the draft agreement submitted to the Transport Union delegates at the conference which was held at the offices of the Ministry of Industry and Commerce.

It is not known if the picture house musicians will be affected.

TREE-PLANTING IN THE WEST.

The Free State Government Publicity Department states that "during the months of February, March, and April almost 70,000 trees and shrubs have been planted in Clara, Galway, Roscommon, and Leitrim—more than twice the average number planted in these counties in any previous season for the past ten years. Forest and fruit trees, as well as ornamental shrubs and hedgerow plants, were included in these operations, and the planting took place on almost 500 farms. The young trees and shrubs were obtained from nurseries as far apart as Waterford, Scariff, Athlone, and Rathdrum, and no material delay or damage was sustained by any of the numerous bundles of trees and plants consigned from these places."

THE SECRETARIAL COURSE at SKERRY'S COMMERCIAL SCHOOL, 10 Harcourt st., Dublin, is the best possible preparation for a Business Career, and includes expert tuition in Shorthand, Typewriting, Book-keeping, Office Routine, etc. Prospectus free.—(Advt.)

CATTLE SEIZED.

ACTION BY TROOPS IN LEITRIM.

A LAND DISPUTE ENDS.

Early on Saturday morning National soldiers surrounded a farm at Mong, near Carick-on-Shannon, and took away twenty-three head of cattle, which had been grazing there.

It appears that upwards of twelve months ago the entire farm at Mong was seized from the owner, Mr. Francis L. Vaughan. Proceedings were instituted, a large claim was lodged as a result of negotiations which followed, 90 acres were sold to a number of men, and the claim for compensation was waived.

Thirteen acres remained unsold, and a man named Patrick Dunne, of Cloonfad, Cootehall, went into forcible possession, the plea being that his people had been evicted from the land some years ago. Dunne, it was alleged, would neither buy the lands nor allow any other person to do so.

Mr. Vaughan had stated that he was prepared to sell to Dunne at an equitable price.

Dunne was arrested by the soldiers on Saturday morning.

Mr. Vaughan stated that no rent or rates had been paid on this portion of the lands for 13 months.

The cattle were impounded at the Jail Military Barracks.

In the afternoon a settlement was reached between the owner, Mr. Vaughan, and the man Dunne, who went into forcible possession, Dunne agreeing to pay the owner £130 for the 13 Irish acres, and all rent and rates due. Dunne was then released from custody, and his cattle were returned to him.

EMPLOYER HONOURED.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT IN MONAGHAN.

The Bishop of Clogher (Dr. McKenna) presided at a complimentary dinner at St. Joseph's Presbytery, Monaghan, on Tuesday, in honour of Mr. Charles McNally, who has been responsible for the development of a new and successful embroidery industry in the town. There was a representative company. In the course of the evening a presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. McNally, the presentation taking the form of a canteen of cutlery and a tea and coffee service.

Dr. McKenna, in proposing the health of the guest of the evening, said that there were many young people in Monaghan who owed their employment and independence in life to Mr. McNally. From a very modest beginning he had built up an industry which now employed 180 girls in almost ideal conditions. That was through his initiative, some few years ago, when Belgian refugees, with special training in needlework, came to the town. During the last two years, when poverty and unemployment were so rife all over the country, they were very fortunate to have in their midst the Monaghan Embroidery Company.

Mr. T. Toal, Chairman of the Monaghan County Council, paid tribute to the achievement of Mr. McNally, to whom, he said, the people of Monaghan were under the deepest obligations.

Mr. McNally, replying, said it made him happy to feel that he had so many friends in Monaghan, and the knowledge that his efforts were appreciated gave him courage to carry on. He dealt with the difficulties which beset his industry in the early stages, but which had been successfully overcome, and dwelt on the necessity of establishing industries on like lines in Irish provincial centres.

FUTURE OF TANGIER.

FRENCH VIEW OF COMING LONDON CONFERENCE.

PARIS, Saturday.

"Pertinax," writing in the Echo de Paris, this morning, lays emphasis upon the importance of reaching an agreement on the Tangier question, declaring that the present moment is hardly propitious for the beginning of a quarrel between the Mediterranean States, and that the three countries directly interested in the Tangier question should reach an agreement if they showed themselves capable of detachment from local view-points, and would conduct their discussions on a more general basis.

The French Government, it is said, will embark upon the negotiations in London in a very conciliatory spirit. It has decided to treat foreign interests in the municipal institutions of the city generously, and will give all the necessary guarantees to ensure the demilitarisation, and even the neutralisation, of the Tangier region, while at the same time providing for a Customs regime of complete equality. On the other hand, it has no desire to alienate the power of the Sultan or to impair the unity of his territory.

The Gaulois says that the failure to settle the Tangier question is paralysing the economic life of the town. Indispensable work at the port can only be begun when Tangier is placed under a regime which has been precisely defined, and when adequate guarantees are secured for the foreign population. It is not easy to see how the points of view of the three countries are to be reconciled, but a formula should be found.—(Reuter.)

COTTAGE CONTRACTS.

SWORN INQUIRY AT ATHY.

At a sworn inquiry, held at Athy by the L.G. Department, into charges that certain contracts for labourers' cottage repairs in the name of J. Byrne, were really executed by Arthur Murphy, a labour member of the Athy District Council and of Kildare County Council, Mr. Byrne said that he knew nothing about the contracts. He was employed under the direct labour scheme on the roads.

Another charge was that it was within the knowledge of the Athy District Council and of their engineer that the real contractor was Mr. Murphy; and there was a third charge that the engineer to the Council certified for payment of the full contract money, whereas the several contracts were only partially executed.

Mr. Murphy admitted taking the contracts. "I was in the thing for myself," he said, "and I can only speak for myself." He tendered, he added, in the name of J. Byrne, Fossagh.

The Clerk of the Council explained that paying orders in the name of Byrne were handed to Murphy for some time back to act as postman owing to the state of the country.

At the close of the inquiry the Inspector, Mr. Strahan, said that the frankness of some of the evidence was really startling.

ENGLISH MASONS AND ALIENS.

In 1915 and 1916 all Freemasons of German, Austrian, Hungarian, or Turkish birth were excluded from English Masonic Lodges during the continuance of the war and until the Grand Lodge, after the Treaty of Peace had been signed, should otherwise determine.

At the next meeting of the Grand Lodge, to be held this week, the following resolution will be moved:—"That, in order to preserve the peace and harmony of the craft, the resolutions of the Grand Lodge relating to Freemasons of alien birth in English Lodges shall cease to operate against any individual brother when the Lodge, or Lodges, to which he belongs shall pass an unanimous resolution of reinstatement."

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

On Thursday, at 4 p.m.—not to-morrow, as was stated in error last Saturday—in the Regent House, Trinity College, Dublin, Mr. J. G. Swift MacNeill, K.C., will deliver a lecture on "The Parliamentary representation of Dublin University in the nineteenth century." The lecture will be open to the public, and the Provost will take the chair.

NEW BRITISH ASSESSMENT TO BE MODIFIED.

"The true test of a good Government is the way in which it gives attention to the legitimate grievances of the people, and provides for the reasonable requirements of the nation," said Mr. J. D. Cassels, K.C., M.P., at Hunsdon, Hampshire, on Saturday. He added that concessions will shortly be announced in connection with Schedule A of the new assessment, which will meet most of the complaints which had been made.

BISHOP OF LONDON'S VISIT.

ENORMOUS CONGREGATIONS IN BELFAST.

The Bishop of London was the special preacher at the Services in St. Anne's Cathedral, Belfast, yesterday.

For more than a week considerable opposition to his visit manifested itself on account of his supposed ritualistic tendencies. Yesterday, however, the Bishop preached in the morning, afternoon, and evening, and on each occasion the congregation filled the spacious Cathedral building.

The afternoon Service was confined to men, and ministers of every denomination were present. The Bishop remarked that he had never seen such a large congregation of men at Service.

Those who expected to hear unorthodox pronouncements must have been disappointed, for Dr. Ingram's remarks were characterised throughout by extreme simplicity, and were purely evangelical in their appeal. He received a most attentive hearing, the congregation being obviously impressed.

The Bishop of London arrived in Dublin on Saturday morning in connection with the annual "Quiet Day" for the clergy. Later he addressed the clergy of the United Diocese at Christ Church Cathedral, there being a large attendance. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Bishop left Dublin for Belfast.

THE LAND BILL.

MEATH FARMERS' ATTITUDE.

Mr. Thomas Austin, Secretary of the Meath Farmers' Association, discussing the new Land Bill with our Navan Correspondent yesterday, said that he was not in a position to give a considered opinion on the merits of the bill, but he thought its introduction very significant, and an early and beneficial fruit of native legislation. He was unable to say what was likely to be the attitude of the Farmers' Party to it, because that would be determined by the instructions of the tenants themselves. Conventions would likely be summoned in every county. There would be a Convention for County Meath held in the Y.M.S. Hall, Navan, on a date which would be advertised, and the representative of every Estate Committee in County Meath could come there and vote in the most democratic manner for or against the bill in its general terms, or for or against any particular provisions that they would wish embodied or eliminated respectively. He hoped that some of the farmer deputies of the Dail would be able to attend the Convention.

Asked if there was any danger that the Land Bill might precipitate a General Election, Mr. Austin said that that was possible. There was no doubt that if the Conventions of the tenants were unfavourably disposed to the broad principles of the bill the Farmers' Party in the Dail, if they could not have the objectionable principles amended, would challenge an appeal to the country.

Asked what were the prospects of farmers' candidates in any elections that might come, Mr. Austin said that he thought it would be found that the interests of the party were more forward than might be imagined, and so far as it was possible to gauge opinion he thought that every voter with any stake in town or country, and many agricultural labourers as well, would support the farmers' representatives both in the Parliamentary and the Local Government elections.

AONAC TAILTEANN.

PREPARATIONS FOR NEXT YEAR'S FESTIVAL.

The Postmaster-General, Mr. J. J. Walsh, presided at the monthly meeting of the General Council of Aonac Tailteann in Dublin, when reports from various subcommittees were considered.

The Musical Sub-Committee has not yet been formed, but Professor Robert O'Dwyer, who is collaborating with Mr. V. O'Brien in making preliminary arrangements, said he hoped to have a complete list of the members of the sub-committee ready for the next monthly meeting of the Council. The musical programme, as tentatively set out by Professor O'Dwyer, includes an Opening Ode for solo, choir, and orchestra; instrumental and choral competitions, a Gaelic opera, and a competition for composers.

As a result of a meeting between representatives of the Tailteann Council and the National Athletic and Cycling Association, it was decided to hold a week's sports next August. A programme to cover eight days has been arranged, including rowing, swimming, horse jumping, athletics, and boxing. In order to leave sufficient interval between the Tailteann Games in 1924 and the Horse Show, Messrs. J. J. Walsh (Director), P. J. Floyd, and S. L. Hutchinson were selected as representatives to meet a special committee appointed by the Royal Dublin Society to discuss the date for holding the 1924 Horse Show.

The reports of the Dancing, Literary, and other Sub-Committees were considered, and it was decided to proceed without delay to organise a gymnastic section as a particular attraction for schools and colleges. The Council will hold its next meeting on June 26th.

AMERICAN VISITORS.

CONSIGNMENTS OF SECOND-HAND CLOTHING.

About 150 American tourists landed at Queenstown from the three homeward-bound ships which called there on their way to England at the end of last week. The White Star liner Celtic landed 400 sacks of mails, while the Cunard liner Laconia landed about half that number, the United States Line steamer President Polk also landing several score of packages. The three ships, as they approached the harbour, hoisted the Free State tri-colour, the only tender to fly the same flag being the ss. Morsecok, which meets the United States Line's ships.

A remarkable feature of the big mail which now arrives regularly every week for the Free State is the hundreds of packages of second-hand clothing which are sent by the Irish in America to their friends in this country.

The proceeds of the issue will be used for railways, harbours, water supply, advances to settlers, and other purposes. A sinking fund at the rate of one-half per cent. per annum will be provided, and the loan will be redeemed at par between 1935-1965. The application list will be closed on or before Thursday next, and applicants may use the form attached to the prospectus on page 9.

G. GLANFIELD AND SON.

A preliminary announcement on page 9 announces that the subscription list opens to-day for an issue at par of 215,000 Seven and a-Half per Cent. Cumulative Preference Shares of £1 each, the total authorised, and 215,000 Ordinary Shares of 1s. each, out of 1,000,000, of G. Glanfield and Son, wholesale manufacturers of clothing and uniforms and woollen merchants. The company has been formed to acquire the London firm of the same name, established in 1852. The average annual net profits for the last nine years are certified in the prospectus to have been £36,170, or sufficient to cover the Preference dividend more than twice, leaving a balance equivalent to 40 per ecnt. of the whole of the Ordinary Share capital. The full prospectus will be published to-morrow.

WITTY AND GRAVE.

Humour plays a large part in the contents of the special birthday number of the Irish Cyclist and Motor Cyclist—born in 1885 as the Irish Cyclist—but, at the same time, the spirit of fun is well balanced by a number of features of serious appeal. One of the leading contributions is that by Lieutenant-Colonel F. F. MacCabe, on "The Cycle as a Health-Giver." Amongst other contributors are F. T. Bidlake, John Urry, Butler Morris, Jack B. Yeats, R.H.A.; O. Cuningham, Gordon Brewster, Douglas Hemingway, and Quincy Kilby, described as the "Kipling of the U.S.A."

"B" SPECIAL'S HOUSE ATTACKED.

SHOTS THROUGH THE WINDOWS.

There was a sharp conflict between a band of armed men and "B" Specials at Mountjoy West, near Omagh, Co. Tyrone, yesterday morning.

Shortly before daylight the armed men took up positions near the house of a man named Cochrane, who is a sergeant in the "B" Specials, and fired through the windows. Cochrane seized his rifle, and going to an upper window, opened fire in the direction of the attackers.

The firing was heard by a detachment of "B" men who were at Cappagh, and, hastening towards Cochrane's house, they found that the attackers occupied the bridge which spans the River Strule, a short distance from the house.

There was heavy firing for a few minutes, and then the attackers withdrew in the direction of Rashwood. Several of the "Specials" had narrow escapes. One man received a slight wound in the right hand, and two others had their caps pierced by bullets.

When reinforcements arrived from Omagh a thorough search was made of the district, but there were no arrests. Mountjoy West was one of the quietest districts in Northern Ireland during the disturbances of 1921 and the early part of last year.

ROMANCE OF A PRINCESS.

GRAVESEND EXCAVATIONS.

NEW YORK, June 2.

Great interest is taken here in the excavations at Gravesend, and many of the leading newspapers in the United States have reproduced the romantic story of how Princess Pocahontas saved the life of Captain John Smith. This story, however, is not universally credited, and the leading Universities of America and Great Britain have been invited by persons interested in the matter to express their opinion on it.

In reply to these enquiries, Professor T. J. Wertenbaker, of Princetown University, said: "As to the statement of Captain John Smith, that Pocahontas saved his life, I can only say that I do not believe it. The incident rests entirely upon the captain's testimony, given after Pocahontas had visited England and had become famous. His insinuations that Mr. John Rolfe, in order to persuade the girl to marry him, had told her that he (Smith) was dead, I regard as almost certainly untrue."

Professor Wertenbaker added that Captain Smith had accomplished much, both as an explorer and a coloniser, but that his books should be judged with a most critical eye.—(Reuter.)

FRANCHISE IN ITALY.

VOTES FOR WOMEN BEREAVED IN THE WAR.

"This has been our most important conference, and I hope it will have the effect of hastening woman suffrage in the Latin countries, which are the only ones that still hold out against it," said Miss Chrystal Macmillan, Vice-President of the International Alliance for Women Suffrage, giving her views on the recent congress in Rome, and on the prospects for woman suffrage in Italy.

She said that Signor Mussolini's draft bill for woman suffrage is "good for a beginning," but not all that Italian women deserved. One must be thankful, even though the measure is limited to the municipal franchise, and that women, to be entitled, must be mothers or widows of men killed in the war.

STOCKS CLOSED STEADY.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Saturday.

Continued liquidation of low-priced Oils and bear selling imparted considerable weakness during the early dealings, many Industrials falling 1 to 5 points; but the subsequent accumulation of Californian Petroleum, Pan-American Petroleum and American Can caused a partial recovery. The market, however, closed steady. Government Bonds irregular; Railroad Bonds irregular. The day's sales totalled 430,000 shares. Money on call dull. Sterling exchange rates irregular. Silver unchanged for American mined at 99⅝ and unaltered for foreign mined at 65⅝.

CORK GARRISON CHURCH.

SOLEMN BLESSING.

BISHOP COHALAN AND THE ARMY.

Yesterday morning the Garrison Church at Miceal Barracks, Cork, was solemnly blessed by the Most Rev. Dr. Cohalan.

When the National Army took over the barracks it was decided that the church should be repaired and decorated and fitted out as a Roman Catholic church. The structural alterations were made by the corps of Engineers, who also built a beautiful altar, and decorated the apse.

The garrison yesterday morning turned out in full strength. The first parade was on the square, and then, under Commandant Kingston, the men marched with the band to the church, where they were drawn up, forming three sides of a square.

Then the ceremony of solemn blessing was performed. A procession moved from the sacristy to the front door, the cross-bearer being Captain Clayton Love; the acolytes, Lieutenant Fortune and Lieutenant Dorgan, and the assistant clergy, the Rev. Dr. Scannell, Military Chaplain; the Rev. Father Edmund, O.S.F.; the Rev. Father. Henchy, and the Rev. Father Murphy.

The full liturgical ceremony was carried out, the building being solemnly devoted to Blessed Michael, the Archangel.

The troops then filed into the church, where there was a very large congregation.

Mass was celebrated by the Bishop, and during the offering of the Holy Sacrifice hymns were sung by the congregation, to the accompaniment of the horns of the 10th Infantry Battalion, under the direction of Bandmaster Gorgan.

At the Consecration the General Salute was given by buglers from the gallery.

At the Post Communion the Bishop addressed the troops. He said that during the Holy Sacrifice he had prayed particularly for two Irishmen who had largely been responsible for the measure of freedom our country had attained—Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins. Now, he said, Catholics had full religious liberty, and they would use it without in the least infringing the rights or hurting the susceptibilities of others

In conclusion, he said that the Irish National Army was the Army of the most Catholic nation of the world, and it should prove itself worthy, and be an example to the armies of other nations. He congratulated their officers and men on their wonderful success, and wished them prosperity in the future.

After Mass the troops were paraded outside the church, and marched back to the barrack square.

The Bishop and the assistant clergy breakfasted with Major-General Reynolds.

CLONGOWES UNION.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The twenty-sixth annual general meeting of the Clongowes Union was held yesterday at Clongowes College, Co. Kildare. The chair was occupied by Mr. James Mahony, Senior Vice-President, and the attendance numbered about 300. The band of the Dublin Metropolitan Police played a selection of music on the grounds during the afternoon.

A letter was received from Judge Bodkin resigning the Presidency because of his inability to attend the Committee meetings. Mr. P. M. Rath was unanimously elected President on the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Dr. Kennedy Cahill.

The Union Guild medal for religious knowledge and the College Debate medal were awarded to William Tracey; two Union silver medals were awarded to Charles and Michael O'Connor; the Provincial's prize for Irish was given to Charles Conroy, the Union Essay gold medal was given to Joseph Booth, the silver medal to Michael Connor, and a special prize given by the College was awarded to Desmond Counihan.

The Rev. J. B. O'Connell suggested that there should be a closer connection than existed at present between the Union and the Clongowes Social Service Club, and that they should hold more frequent meetings throughout the year. With that view he moved that a paid assistant secretary be appointed to act jointly for both Societies.

Mr. Doolin seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.

Mr. Joseph I. Donaghy suggested that in the more energetic organisation scheme which was being set on foot the old Tullabeg and Clongowes students who were now scattered throughout Belfast and the North of Ireland should be gathered into the Union.

Mr. Vincent Kennedy and Mr. H. J. Campbell were re-elected Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer respectively.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector of the College for having allowed the Union accommodation for the meeting, and for the excellent luncheon which followed

BUSINESS MEN FOR AMERICA.

Activity in commercial circles is evidenced by the large number of business men now crossing the Atlantic. Amongst four hundred saloon passengers who left Southampton for New York on Saturday in the Cunarder Aquitania were many whose names are prominent in business life. A brief glance at the passenger list showed representatives of the following industries:—Publishing, steel, coal, tinplates, rubber, motor cars, films, furs, tyres, watches, paper, tobacco, electrical goods, leather, cattle foods and general produce.

PHŒNIX PARK RACES.

FINE WEATHER AND GOOD SPORT.

From Our Lady Correspondent.

Perhaps never before has a June meeting taken place on the Phœnix Park Club racecourse under more delightful weather conditions than on Saturday, when the long belated summer sprang a surprise, and revealed itself in all its glory. The grounds and paddocks, bathed in brilliant sunshine, were seen at their best, and the rock garden and the picturesque groups of flowering plants were greatly admired.

The racing was most interesting, and the visitors seemed to enter into the proceedings with great zest and enthusiasm, and altogether the proceedings were very gay and animated.

Despite the powerful sporting attractions across the Channel, and the important cricket and tennis fixtures in Dublin, the attendance was large, especially in the grand stand enclosure

Among those noticed on the Club Stand and lawn were Frances Marchioness Conyngham, Mr. and Miss Cameron, Lord HolmPatrick, the Hon. Sybil Hamilton, the Hon. Mrs. Willis, Mr. and Lady Mary Corbally, Lady Tyrwhitt, the Hon. Mrs. Dewhurst, Sir Michael and Lady O'Loghlen, Sir John and Lady Arnott, Captain L. J. Arnott, General Sir Bryan Mahon, Lady Chance, Colonel Challoner Knox, Captain and Mrs. Brooke, Mr. Dalgety, Colonel and Mrs. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kennedy, Captain and Mrs. A. NO VIEWS.

OFFICIALS RETICENT AS TO AGRICULTURAL REPORTS.

Interviewed yesterday regarding the ad interim report of the Free State Commission on Agriculture, an official of the Irish Agricultural Organisation Society states that while it appeared that the Society's recommendations as to butter grading had been adopted, he was not in a position to criticise the report, which he had not yet studied.

Mr. Denis Hegarty, secretary of the Irish Creamery Managers' Association and also of the Irish Dairy (Shippers and Suppliers) Association, stated that the report would have to be considered by his Committee before he could express an opinion. Mr. M. F. O'Hanlon, general secretary of the Irish Farmers' Union, had not yet studied the report.

LIVE STOCK AND HAY IMPORTS.

The Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction announce that until a further case of foot-and-mouth disease is confirmed in Great Britain, they are prepared to consider applications for permission to import animals (cattle, sheep, goats, and swine) for breeding purposes from any part of that country except Plaistow, Essex, the immediate locality of the last outbreak. They have decided that the normal conditions may be reverted to as regards the admission of sheep from Scotland, and that hay and straw may be admitted on licence forthwith. Applications for licences under the Hay and Straw (Movement from Great Britain to Ireland) Order of 1922 should be addressed to the Secretary, Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction (Veterinary Branch), Upper Mount street, Dublin.

Lord Robert Cecil has resigned the Chairmanship of the Executive Committee of the League of Nations Union, and has been succeeded by Professor Gilbert Murray.

WHISKEY SMUGGLING.

PROFIT OF £125,000 FOR ONE VOYAGE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

EDINBURGH, Sunday.

The first of the fleet of Scottish smugglers which set out six months ago for the United States, loaded to the plimsol line with "Scotch," has returned to Glasgow after a hazardous voyage, but with every bottle cleared and a profit of £125,000. Other steamers are off the American coast, and shipping speculators in Leith, which is one of the largest whiskey centres in the country, last week joined in the trade, a steamer having left the port laden with whiskey, ostensibly shipped to France, but destined for American consumption.

The crew of the Vandreuil, which has returned to Glasgow after disposing of thirty thousand cases, representing one-third of a million bottles of whiskey, related the method of smuggling. They anchored well outside the territorial limit, and from the American shore some of the craziest boats afloat pushed out to get a few cases. The "boot-leggers," however, were most well-equipped, fast motor boats, which could outdistance the Government patrol.

The American smugglers came alongside, hastily loaded a hundred cases, or whatever they could carry, and then made for their own secret landing place. There are gangs of "boot-legging" pirates infesting American waters, and all the members of the Vandreuil's crew are armed for emergencies. The Vandreuil was not attacked by the pirates, but other Glasgow vessels were not so fortunate.

Many University students are "boot-legging," tempted by the fortunes, and the smugglers are assured of an immediate market. The illicit traffic is organised by a syndicate of wealthy Jews, who have made millions out of the trade.

The opening ceremony of the Imperial Education Conference at the Board of Education, London, will be performed by the Duke of York.

SAD ACCIDENT AT DALKEY.

TWO LADIES BURNED TO DEATH.

A shocking accident took place on Saturday morning in Dalkey, when two ladies were so severely burned that they have since died.

They were:—Mrs. Sarah Grubb, aged 84, of Mayville terrace, Dalkey, widow of a Mayo bank manager, and her daughter, Miss Alice Grubb, aged 51 years.

It appears that Mrs. Grubb, at about 10 a.m. went down from her bedroom in her nightdress to light a fire. Her night dress became ignited. Miss Grubb, hearing her mother's screams, ran to her assistance. When trying to save her mother her own clothes took fire, with the result that she was terribly burned from the waist upwards. Some persons ran into the house, but were too late to save either.

Mrs. Grubb was already dead when Dr. Wright arrived, and Miss Grubb died fourteen hours later in Monkstown Hospital.

The Dalkey Fire Brigade arrived, but found that little damage had been done to the house by the flames.

SECONDARY TEACHERS.

The Central Executive Council of the Association of Secondary Teachers has passed resolutions, copies of which have been sent to the Minister for Education, (a) protesting against the delay in the payment of the interim grant and in the publication of the rules of distribution, and claiming the issue of an official report at an early date, and at a moderate price, giving full details of the allocation of the whole of the grant, and (b) asserting that appointments to inspectorships should be given only to practical teachers of at least five years' standing, with the proviso that all new inspectors of secondary schools should be registered secondary teachers.

COAL PRICES DOWN.

ALL-ROUND DROP OF 2/- A TON IN DUBLIN.

The prices of household coal in Dublin to-day show an all-round reduction of 2s. per ton. Best quality is rated at 52s., and Scotch kitchen coal at 41s., while best Wigan—which is always in greatest demand—is priced at 49s.

The reductions follow the announcement of a drop in London prices of from 2s. to 5s. per ton, but, as pointed out to an Irish Times representative on Saturday, the Dublin figures are regulated solely by the state of the trade, and not by any variation in another city.

Mr. William Hewat, of Messrs. Thomas Heiton and Co., Ltd., Westmoreland street, said that in London it was the practice to reduce the price of coal in the summer time to induce householders to lay in stocks to prevent a heavy call on supplies during the winter. In the autumn the prices increased for the winter deliveries.

DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

PRIZE LIST ISSUED.

A reminder that the great Dublin Horse Show is to be held this year on the 14th, 15th, 16th, and 17th August is the issue of the schedule of prizes offered for competition. In the horse classes, prizes are offered for thoroughbreds, hunters, young horses suitable for hunters, cobs, ponies and harness horses. The jumping programme, as usual, affords strong inducements to competitors.

The special attention of exhibitors is drawn to an alteration in the system of deposits in regard to horses removed from the showyard overnight. If a horse is removed at night, a fee of £2 must be paid, which will be refunded if the horse is returned to the Show every morning. The object, of course, is to ensure that visitors may be able to inspect all the horses presented for competition.

RAILWAY GROUPING.

SENATOR AND NEED OF FULL DISCUSSION.

Speaking at a meeting of the Great Southern and Western Railway Advisory Committee of the Railway Clerks' Association in Dublin on Saturday night, Senator J. T. O'Farrell referred to the proposal for the re-organisation of the railway system in the Free State, and said that the companies were evidently under the impression that they could arrange the whole matter between themselves, and have their actions legalised by a short bill, which gave no details and contained no provisions for compensation to the redundant staff, nor protection for those retained.

In this they would be disappointed. Everything would have to be revealed and set down in a comprehensive measure, which would be fully discussed in both Houses. In no other way could the interests of the community and the railway employés be safeguarded. The proposals of the Railway Clerks' Association had been submitted to the Government, and the whole position was being carefully watched.

CLONMEL HORSE SHOW.

At a meeting of shareholders of the new Clonmel Horse Show Company, it was reported that £1,900 of £2,000 shares offered to the public had been taken, and that most of the shares had been fully paid up. It was decided to elect a temporary committee, representative of the old executive farmers and business men, to carry on the Show next August, pending the regular election of the Directors. Mr. W. S. Watson was appointed Hon. Sec., and it was decided to advertise for a working secretary at a salary of £3 per week till September, when a permanent appointment will be made. Lord Donoughmore, a generous supporter to the show, and a large shareholder, was elected President, and General Kellett, Vice-President.

TOURIST TRAFFIC.

AMERICAN EXPERT'S ADVICE TO FREE STATE.

Mr. A. Canavan, of the United States Lines, addressed the Cork Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting recently held to consider the development of tourist traffic between the Free State and the United States.

There was a big revenue lying dormant in the tourist traffic, Mr. Canavan declared. Of more than a quarter of a million Americans visiting Europe annually, very few came via Ireland, but the Free State should make a bid for at least 75 per cent. of that traffic. As each tourist on his way through Ireland would spend at least £20, the country stood to reap a revenue from the traffic of £4,000,000.

Mr. Canavan said that the development of the tourist traffic in the Free State should be on the lines followed by Swiss, Italian, French and English agencies. At present, 2,000 agents were working in America on behalf of the United States Lines, working up Irish tours. Their offices at New York, Chicago, Boston, and other cities were making tourist bookings through to Killarney and other centres of interest in the Free State.

The meeting decided that a joint Committee of the Chamber and the Munster Motor Association be formed to organise a South of Ireland Tourist Traffic Association. Representatives of railway companies, hotels, etc., will be invited to participate in the work of organisation.

TWO AIRMEN INJURED.

An aeroplane from Salisbury, with two occupants, when flying low struck a chimney stack at Westbury, Wilts, on Saturday, practically demolishing it. The machine then crashed into a minehole belonging to the Westbury Ironworks Company, and was almost submerged in seven feet of water. The aeroplane was wrecked and the airmen, who were injured, were taken to hospital.

PHŒNIX PARK.

INTERESTING RACING.

VESINGTON KING'S SUCCESSFUL DEBUT.

The delightful weather on Saturday afternoon induced a large company to the Phœnix Park, where an excellent programme of races was set for discussion. The piercingly cold wind of the previous days had completely disappeared, and for the first time this season real summer-like conditions prevailed. It was a particularly interesting afternoon's sport, and it was an indication of the healthy state of the sport to find so many runners for the various events at the end of a week in which there had been already four days' racing.

Smoke Cloud's easy win in the hurdle race at the Curragh earlier in the week did not entail a penalty for the Greenmount Plate, which was the first race on the card, and Colonel O'Malley-Keyes' useful gelding was the selected of backers. He ran well up to the closing stage, but a swerve about 150 yards from the winning post did not improve his chance, and he was overtaken and beaten by Bolshevist, who up to lately had been regarded more in the light of a hurdle racer. He evidently is a useful horse on the flat, for in April he beat Tara Hill in a mile race, and now accounted for Smoke Cloud over the mile and seven furlongs course. Invermay, who on many occasions previously had disappointed her connections, was expected to make some amends by winning the Weight for Age Plate, but once more she failed to realise expectation, and was relegated into second place, beaten by another three-year-old, Burnham Beeches.

The Blake Plate, the chief event on the afternoon's card, brought out a field of ten runners, and amongst them was Vesington King, a son of Roi Herode, out of Wetonah, a mare which cost 3,400 guineas. The colt had not previously carried silk but he was made a pronounced favourite, and justified his position in the market by winning in very good style from Golden Argosy. He is the first foal from Wetonah, and created a very favourable impression, as did Golden Argosy, a nice stamp of colt by Argosy, out of Bienvenida.

Though only seven runners turned out for the Whitefields Plate, the race proved an attractive one, and was the medium of a good deal of speculation. The Maze winner, Beech Hill, spoiled his chance by a slow beginning, but no excuses could be put forward for the failure of Lord Offaly, who held a good position throughout the race, but never looked like tackling Low Tide, who was in front all the way. The Selling Two-Year-Old Race which followed was won by Emmett D., who stayed on long enough to secure a half-length victory from Sporting Derie. The biggest field of the day—namely, sixteen runners—appeared for the Ashtown Plate, and this was won by Oola, who followed up her recent Curragh success by leading all the way, and winning cleverly from Magic Ring and No Points. DERBY PROSPECTS.

WHAT IS TOWN GUARD'S CONDITION?

WEEK-END EXCITEMENT OVER ERSTWHILE FAVOURITE.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Sunday Night.

All the excitement throughout the week-end has been over the erstwhile Derby favourite, Town Guard. As I stated yesterday morning, he was again absent from exercise with the rest of Mr. Gilpin's string on Friday morning. Thousands waited eagerly to know whether he was out yesterday morning, but he did not appear, and hopes fell correspondingly. He was, however, given a bout of trotting exercise for half an hour within the confines of the Clarehaven establishment. My Newmarket Correspondent informed me to-day by telephone that Town Guard came out on the Heath in the morning, and, with George Archibald in the saddle, was given a gallop by himself over a mile. It was only at half-speed, but Town Guard moved freely and well, and there was no sign of any stiffness. Mr. Gilpin has had the eminent veterinary surgeon, Mr. John Coleman, in constant consultation with him, and his opinion is that the trouble is not acute.

Lord Woolavington, his owner, who must be the most bothered man in London at the moment, has issued several statements of a very hopeful nature, but they are probably inspired as much by hope as by the complete confidence that should be reposed in a leading Derby candidate at this very critical stage. I hazard the opinion that, unless Mr. Gilpin feels it safe to give Town Guard a fast gallop before the race, his Derby prospect will not be a bright one. The last work he did was a good gallop over a mile and three furlongs last Wednesday. That will be an interval of seven days before the Derby, and, should he not be galloped between this date and Wednesday, he will go to Epsom with an incomplete preparation.

Meanwhile, his condition has left the bookmakers in a quandary. Yesterday, both at Windsor Races and in London, they refused to lay him, and speculation on the Derby almost entirely dried up. His position in the market will be influenced at the call-over of the card at the clubs to-morrow evening by the work he does to-morrow morning.

SUPPORT FOR LEGALITY.

I expect that to-morrow there will be a good deal of support for Mr. R. C. Dawson's Legality. It was difficult to obtain 10 to 1 against him on Saturday, and a prominent member of the Ring expressed the opinion that Lord Furness's grey colt might eventually start favourite. There is no doubt that he has immensely pleased Mr. Dawson lately, that he has done a splendid preparation, and that there is a great deal of confidence in him. But then there was also immense confidence in him before the Two Thousand Guineas, and there he failed deplorably. The hard going was the probable cause, but the fact remains that he could win nothing that day. I expect the going to be better at Epsom on Wednesday than it was at Newmarket on Guineas day, but it is a point worth noting that Legality's distinctive action is hardly suited to the Epsom course.

Papyrus went a most attractive gallop at Newmarket on Saturday, and, now that the question of his jockey is definitely settled, he will in all probability keep a steady position in the market. Donoghue is more than sweet on his chance, and, with horse and jockey both being ideal for the course, the portents for Papyrus are very favourable. I still, however, fail to see why he should beat Ellangowan, who defeated him fairly and squarely in the Guineas. I know that Papyrus was being specially prepared for Epsom, and that he was expected to come on a lot, which he has; but then Ellangowan has come on a lot too, and I am perfectly confident that his improvement has been relatively as great as, if not greater than, that of Papyrus. I know that Ellangowan is remarkably well, and that his connections are very confident indeed. With Town Guard under a cloud they have every reason to be confident.

PHAROS'S CONNECTIONS HOPEFUL.

Pharos also is wonderfully well. No Earl of Derby has won the race since Sir Peter Teazle annexed it in 1787, but the present holder of the title is exceedingly hopeful that the chain of ill-luck in the race will be broken on Wednesday by Pharos. There seems to be no doubt entertained about his ability to stay the course. It was the opinion of so great a judge as Matt Dawson that a horse who could stay the mile and a quarter Across the Flat could stay the Derby course, and Pharos has won two races Across the Flat this season.

Newmarket trainers have this year four very formidable candidates in Town Guard, Ellangowan, Pharos, and Papyrus. It is generally thought that among those trained away from headquarters the most formidable opposition will come from Legality, with whose prospects I have already dealt, and Mr. J. B. Joel's My Lord. On his form last year the Wantage candidate hardly comes into the picture, but in the opinion of his trainer, Charles Morton, he is right in the centre of the limelight. He has come through a splendid preparation—and Morton's preparation of a Derby horse is a very searching affair—with complete satisfaction to everybody.

My Lord is said to be two stone in front of Greenfinch, but Greenfinch completely failed to stay the mile and a quarter the other day at Lingfield, when Eastern Monarch gave him 8lb. and a neck beating, and cannot be regarded as a reliable trial horse for the Derby. Morton, however, can command other trial tackle, and the fact that My Lord has satisfied him is a sufficient recommendation of a colt's classic prospects.

KNOCKANDO NOT WITHOUT A CHANCE.

I know a man who, in the slang of racing, has his "card well marked," who has been persistently backing Knockando, considered to be Lord Woolavington's second string. Should Town Guard not be at his best this fellow might be a very good substitute, for on his running in the Guineas he has a great chance, and would now be one of the leading favourites were he not in the same stable as Town Guard. The veteran Herbert Jones, who will have the mount, is riding as well as ever he did, and of no jockey living can it be said with more truth that he "stole" a Derby, for the success of Minoru was entirely due to his jockeyship.

It is possible that the Irish jockey, T. Burns, will ride Portumna. This is the colt that I suggested a long time ago was a promising 100 to 1 chance for those who like long shots. That still holds good. To-morrow will probably throw a good deal of light on the situation, and further enlighten us about the position of Town Guard.

SUNRISING'S 10 TO 1 CHANCE AT WINDSOR.

There was not a vast amount of interest attaching to the racing on Saturday at Windsor, where the Irish owner, Mr. P. W. Shaw, scored a success with Belsize. He had rather disappointed his connections several times this season, but he doubtless compensated here when in the Romney Handicap he beat Lord Penzance and Claremont, with the remunerative odds of 5 to 1 laid against him. He took command entering the straight, and went on to win comfortably by a length and a half. Another hitherto disappointing horse in Scamp also won a race here. Between the time he ran in the Derby last year and his victory at Bath on Tuesday he had done absolutely nothing, but now he seems to have started a winning sequence that may well be continued.

Backers went astray badly over the principal event of the afternoon, the Royal Windsor Three-Year-Old Handicap, for both Rosemead and Crispeno were heavily supported. Neither had anything to do with the finish, and the first three places were filled by 10 to 1 chances—Sunrising, Hatchford, and Vic's Choice. It was a fine effort on the part of little F. L. Bullock on Sunrising to get up in the last stride and snatch a head victory over his father, who was on Hatchford. The failure of Tetragon was as complete as was her failure in Ireland, and this filly apparently does not stay.

BOWOOD'S WIN AT DONCASTER.

There was not much in the racing at Doncaster to interest my readers. The King won the principal event in the Chesterfield Plate with Bowood, but it was only by a head that Herbert Jones scored over Weston on Sierra Leone. That very consistent filly, Bella Do, defeated several better favourites in the Fitzwilliam Stakes.

There is no racing this afternoon, and all thoughts are concentrated on the Derby and the great Epsom fixture with its long list of interesting races. I hear that if the going is at all good Top Gallant will oppose Captain Cuttle in the Coronation Cup. They meet, of course, at weight for age, and it should be a most interesting race. In the Oaks on Friday Mr. R. C. Dawson's Teresina is being talked up as a formidable rival to Tranquil. On her showing in the Newmarket Stakes the Whatcombe filly has a good chance.

WINDSOR.

SUNRISING'S NECK VICTORY.

SCAMP SECURES SLOUGH STAKES.

The late trains brought good numbers of race-goers from town to Windsor on Saturday, and, although the sun did not put in an appearance, the conditions were sufficiently pleasant to make the meeting a success.

The principal attraction of the day was the Royal Windsor Handicap, in which only two horses were seriously backed. Rosemead became a strong favourite, but made no show in the race. Crispena ran well for a mile, but faded away. The winner proved to be Sunrising, whose first victory this was. Hatchford ran well, but failed to do his best at the critical moment. An interesting feature of the race was that it was fought out by father and son, the elder Bullock being on the second.

The Romney Welter attracted a smaller field than was expected from the entries. Lord Penzance was badly away or he would have won. He made up a lot of ground in the race, but Belsize stayed on stoutly to win easily.

Missal was a hot favourite for the first race, but after making the early running was beaten by Cockpit. Confirmation scored a ready victory in the Holyport Selling Plate, and was bought in for 530 gns.

The Two-Year-Old Selling Race went to Rosengarten, a nice-looking youngster, who was, however, entirely neglected in the market.

The last race was won somewhat easily by the penalised Scamp. Lord Jersey's four-year-old was not expected by many to be able to stay the course, but in a rather slow run race his speed gave him the necessary advantage.

In the straight, Pomone took up the running, attended by Vic's Choice, Black Orator and Sunrising. At half-way, Crispena improved her position, but gave way a quarter of a mile from home to Sunrising, who, resisting the challenge of Hatchford, won by half a length; a neck separated second and third. DONCASTER.

THE KING'S SUCCESS.

BOWOOD WINS CHESTERFIELD PLATE.

Quite a big company was present at Doncaster on Saturday, and the sport was quite exhilarating, while the success of the King's colours in the Chesterfield Plate gave quite a tone to the proceedings. A mile and a half was, in the opinion of most, the best distance of Bowood, but it was known that the horse was particularly well, and so it was hoped that he would succeed. There was, too, a doubt about Sierra Leone staying, and Weston, in consequence, was advised to ride a waiting race. This he did, but he carried the tactics to extremes, so that he was some hundred yards behind the leaders coming round the bend. Then he began to overhaul the field, and looked like winning, but Bowood stayed on sufficiently to win by a head, a result which was loudly acclaimed.

The local stable had hoped to win the Corporation Handicap with Balzac, but the best the horse could do was to dead-heat with Galloping Slav, and, in fact, the general opinion was that the latter had just won. Later, Elkie was supported for the Don Plate, but failed to beat Punter's Bane. But Vasey's turn came when The Pelican was a clever winner of the Milton Maiden Apprentice Plate.

Lord Fitzwilliam is practically a local owner, and his colours always command a strong local following at Doncaster. This largely accounts for the support of Smoke Screen in the Scurry Handicap, for though the horse had no decent form, it was remembered that he had scored over the course as a two-year-old. He gave Jelliss quite a comfortable sort of ride, for he finished with plenty in hand.

Miss Contrary had narrowly won her only race at Hurst Park, but she failed to reproduce anything like that form in the Fitzwilliam Stakes. In fact, her running was so bad that it cannot be accepted as anything like correct. Grand Joy is not too reliable, but now appeared to run game enough. The winner was Bella-Do, whose improvement since earlier in the week came as a surprise.

Why 555 are hand-made for discriminating smokers
The cost of making 555 by hand—one at a time—is approximately ten times more than machine mass production. The pure Virginia Leaf used for 555 is selected on the actual Tobacco Fields by our own Experts and only 5lbs. out of every 1,000lbs grown is good enough for 555. After maturing like rare old wine, 30% of the original bulk of this Leaf is then eliminated in the form of stalk, sand and dust. Finally the Tobacco for each cigarette is encased by hand—one at a time—in pure vegetable paper. Only by these methods, exclusive to us, is it possible to attain the Absolutely Unique Qualities of 555 for Discriminating Smokers.

DAVIS CUP.

DOUBLES WON BY INDIA.

Brilliant weather, a splendid attendance, and tennis such as Dublin has not seen for many a day, went to make up an interesting afternoon at Wilton place on Saturday. True, the result of the match was against us, and India now lead by two matches to one, but as was aptly said: "Somebody must lose." In a long, five set match, there was little or nothing between the teams, except in the first set, won by Ireland, six games to love. Then came India's recovery. A steady sustained effort throughout sets two and three.

And what a recovery it was. Right from the start Deane and Fyzee found their game, and after deuce had been called, took the opening game on Meldon's service. The struggle was now fairly joined, and it was a case of alternate games to the fifth, when India led 3-2, the games, curiously enough, all going against the service. In the sixth, Deane's service, India went further ahead, and, although Ireland reduced the lead in the next, India went out with the eighth and ninth, the latter after deuce had been called. This set included three love games, the third, sixth and seventh, the last falling to Ireland on Scroope's service.

With the score "one set all," Deane opened the third set, and India took the game from 40-30. Ireland rallied strongly, and three successive games raised our hopes, but India were not done with, and slowly the score reached three all. Then ensued a great struggle for the lead. Four all, five all and six all followed, and then Deane's service again gave India the advantage, and, keeping the effort going, India also took the fourteenth for the set at eight games to six. "Two sets to one, India leads."

The fourth ran on very similar lines at the start, but this time India led 3-1, only to be caught and passed in the seventh. Scroope put Ireland further ahead in the eighth, and although Ireland lost the ninth against Deane's service, Meldon, serving well, took the tenth at 40-15, to square the match on the score 6-4.

By this time the pace was beginning to tell, especially in Deane's case, and for the first few games of the fifth set he appeared appreciably slower, while twice he double faulted. This latter failing showed also in the seventh and eighth games, when Fyzee and Scroope were the offenders. The set was a curious one. Each side in turn had a run of success. First Ireland scored three consecutive games, two of them from 40-15, but in the third India made a better fight and only went down after deuce had been called twice. Then India had a turn, and scored three games running to square the set. Six close games followed without any sign that one or other would win, and at the end of the twelfth the score stood "six all." The thirteenth was Deane's service, and, after deuce had been called once, India took the lead, 7-6. With Meldon serving, it looked odds on Ireland drawing level again, but the ace went the other way when the score stood 30-40, and almost before the spectators realised the fact, India took game, set and match, at 8-6.

In a match so closely fought from start to finish, it is anything but an easy matter to analyse the play. The teams were very evenly matched and neither succeeded in establishing any decided lead after the first set, when the Scroope-Meldon accuracy and dash raised our hopes. The latter's service looked difficult to take, and at the net Scroope dealt with the returns very effectively. One curious fact emerges from the five sets played, namely, the number of times the game went against the service. For instance, in the first five games of the second set the serving side lost, and it was when she won the sixth—Deane's service—that India took a lead that she never afterwards lost.

We are inclined to think that the secret lies in the fact that the visitors had just enough superiority when it came "to putting them away," to enable them to win. Beyond all doubt Deane's smashes were wonderfully accurate all through, and he made the most of his chances with this stroke. On the other hand, though Scroope worked steadily and well for the opening, we did not make the same use of the chances when they came. It is in no carping spirit that the suggestion is made, but once or twice during the struggle it looked as if the taking of a little more risk would have turned the scale. This particularly in the third set.

L. S. Deane and A. H. Fyzee made a strong pair, and, as we have said, Deane's overhead work had a good deal to say to the result. Some of his passing shots also were very good. Dr. Fyzee was overshadowed to some extent by his partner, but he lasted a hard match well, and some of his recoveries were wonderful. The home pair played a splendid game, and it is doubtful if any other combination would have put up as good a fight. S. F. Scroope proved himself the finest doubles player we have. His steady accuracy, and the way he worked for an opening were worth many points to the side. L. A. Meldon played a sound game from start to finish, and his severe service proved a big asset, especially in the first set.

His Excellency the Governor-General, and Mr. E Duggan were interested spectators of Saturday's match. On arrival they were received by Lord Glenavy, Mr. Serjeant Hanna, Mr. H. R. Maunsell (Hon. Secretary I.L.T.A.), and Mr. J. B. Shortt (Hon. Secretary Fitzwilliam Club), and conducted to the pavilion, from which they viewed the play.

Details:—

India—(L. S. Deane and Dr. A. H. Fyzee) beat Ireland—(S. F. Scroope and L. A. Meldon)—0-6, 6-3, 8-6, 4-6, 8-6.

Following the Davis Cup match, the committee staged an exhibition match between W. G. Ireland (Fitzwilliam), and P. B. D. Spence (South Africa and Edinburgh University) v. G. B. S. Mack (Dublin University) and Dr. J. McKay (Australia and Dublin University), which provided some brilliant tennis before the first-named pair won 7-5, 6-2. Mr. Spence is the present holder of the Scottish championship.

As a result of this match the interest in the tie is bound to increase. India, with one singles and the doubles to her credit, leads by two matches to one, and a good deal depends on how to-day's singles work out. In these S. M. Jacob meets Dr. E. D. McCrea, and Dr. A. H. Fyzee the Hon. Cecil Campbell. On the form of Friday last it may look like a win for India, but we are in no way despondent, and given reasonable luck, there is a good chance of Ireland's qualifying to meet France in the next round. But one thing is certain. Our representatives will have to pull out their very best game; the opposition is giving nothing away. The following officials have been nominated by the referee, Mr. F. O. Stoker, for the singles to-day:—Umpire—Mr. S. C. D. Harrison. Linesmen—Messrs. S. Fry, L. A. Meldon, A. Lane Joynt, H. E. Maunsell, T. G. Wallis, E. Hornidge, S. E. Smith, J. W. Murray, and P. D. B. Spence.

Play to-day will start at 3.15 with the match between the Hon. Cecil Campbell and Dr. A. H. Fyzee, at the close of which Dr. E. D. McCrea will meet S. M. Jacob.

POLO.

COCHRANE CUP.

The match between Lohunda and Kilcarberry in the Cochrane Cup tournament attracted a huge crowd to Phœnix Park on Saturday. The ground rode somewhat hard, but play was interesting. The form displayed by Lohunda was a great improvement on that of Thursday last, when beaten by Hillbrook, and they rode off easy winners by 6 goals to 2. Mr. Henry O'Reilly was in scoring form, and in the third chukkar hit through 3 goals in quick succession.

Lohunda (6) v. Kilcarberry (2).

Lohunda kept up the pressure for the first five minutes, but their shooting was wide. A penalty free was awarded Kilcarberry, and with play transferred to the other end they made good use of the opportunity, and scored. Lohunda, however, drew level early in the next period, and a hot race was maintained to the end without further scoring. Kilcarberry put up a great defence early in the third chukkar, and brought off some really clever saves. About mid-way through, Lohunda went into the lead, and shortly after Mr. Daly put them further ahead, but on change of ends Mr. H. O'Reilly added another, to be followed in quick succession by two more. On a change of mounts Kilcarberry were called upon to defend, and after a scrummage at the goal cleared well and carried play to the other end to score their second. They played on the defensive for the remainder of the chukkar, and the finish found the score unaltered.

Teams:—

Lohunda—P. D. Cullinan, H. O'Reilly, J. Daly, and J. W. Shackleton.

Kilcarberry—W. Fitzgerald, J. P. Larminie, J. A. Leonard, and J. A. B. Trench.

Umpire—Captain L. Goulding.

GOLF.

DUBLIN MAN WINS DURHAM CHAMPIONSHIP.

DR. GERALD MOORE'S VICTORY.

Dr. Gerald J. Moore, Seaham Harbour, runner up for the Irish "Close" Championship to Captain Carter at Portmarnock in 1921, won the Durham County Amateur Championship at Dinsdale Spa yesterday with an aggregate of 151—77 and 74. D. A. Haggie (Dinsdale), the winner of the championship two years ago, was second with an aggregate of 157. Seaham Harbour won the team championship with an aggregate of 471, Dinsdale being second with 476.

PARLIAMENTARY HANDICAP.

Two previous winners, Sir P. Lloyd-Greame, M.P., and J. R. Remer, M.P., survived the second round of the Parliamentary Handicap, at Princes's, Sandwich, on Saturday, whilst Lord Newton, who, as the Hon. T. W. Legh, M.P., won as far back as 1893 and 1896, passed through the second round, only to be beaten in a series of four third round games which were played. In addition, the holder, the Hon. F. S. Jackson, M.P., who won twice in the last three years, also passed through the second stage. He received a walk-over from Mr. Lloyd George, who was absent. Lady Astor was an interesting figure in the competition, and with a handicap of 24, she was called upon to meet Mr. Remer, who was rated at three, and the former winner of the handicap defeated the lady at the sixteenth.

Two players who qualified for the fifth round were Cabinet Ministers—Sir P. Lloyd-Greame and Colonel Stanley Jackson. In the third round the former beat Major-General Sir R. Hutchinson, and in the fourth round he disposed of N. Gratton Doyle. In the latter tie Doyle was three holes up at the fourth and the match was square at the ninth, and, after a great struggle, Sir P. Lloyd-Greame won the fifteenth, although giving a stroke here. This gave him a lead which he maintained. Sir L. Worthington Evans's win over Captain Hudson was a notable one, for the former was down most of the way, taking the lead for the first time at the seventeenth. Captain Hudson won the eighteenth, the nineteenth was halved, but Evans won the twentieth, and thus the match.

NEXT YEAR'S CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The open championship for 1924 will be played on the links of the Royal Liverpool Club, Hoylake, and the amateur championship at St. Andrews. The amateur will be played in May, and the open in June. The definite dates will be fixed later.

MISS CECILIA LEITCH.

Miss Cecilia Leitch has so far recovered the use of her right arm that she will take part in late summer and autumn events. She has been incapacitated since May, 1922. She will compete for the English Ladies' Championship in October.

HOLE IN ONE AT HOYLAKE.

Playing on their own course at Hoylake on Saturday, Royal Liverpool beat Sunningdale in a match, by singles and foursomes, by 8 matches to 3. The Northern club won the singles by 5 matches to 1, while the foursomes were divided. Playing against F. S. Bond, David Brown (Royal Liverpool) holed out from the fourth tee. The hole measures 150 yards.

INTERESTING AMATEUR FOURSOME.

E. W. Holderness and T. A. Torrance won a remarkable eighteen holes match from the brothers J. J. and W. A. Murray, on the Pollard's Hill Course, Norbury, on Saturday. The Murrays were four up at the turn, but so well did the amateur ex-champions play coming home that they squared at the fifteenth, and won by 2 up. Holderness and Torrance were round in 67 to the Murrays' 69.

HOLING IN ONE AT RAMSGATE.

The winning of two holes on one course on successive days in one stroke each is a very rare happening, but such occurred during the week-end on the St. Augustine's links near Ramsgate. On Friday Mr. M. Bromgove holed the fifth (110 yards) in one, and on Saturday Mr. W. Hicks, at the sixth (115 yards) holed out from the tee.

MITCHELL BEATS DUNCAN.

George Duncan and Abe Mitchell engaged in exhibition matches over the extended course of the Dunbar club, Haddingtonshire, on Saturday. In the afternoon Mitchell had a 73, which beat Duncan by 9 strokes.

OLD STILLORGAN G.U.

Yesterday the members of the above Union had an outing to Woodbrook, when splendid golfing weather favoured the competition for the President's Cup, which was won by R. Bates, for the second consecutive year. The winner returned a card of 78 nett. Three tied for second place with 82 nett. H. Clifton had the best gross. Foursomes v. bogey filled in the afternoon, and the best returns were made by C. Murray and C. Robinson, R. Bates and T. P. Kelly, and E. Ryan and C. C. Haughton.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

LOBITOS OILFIELDS.

The full report of Lobitos shows that the directors have again been highly conservative in their declaration of net profit, and also in fixing the rate of dividend. It will be noted that, in addition to substantially increased regular depreciation allowances, special allowances for steamers and taxation have again been made from net profits (writes The Investor's Chronicle). The same note of conservatism is observable in the balance sheet. Five-sixths of aggregate development expenditure of over half a million has been written off to date. There is a big rise in investments from £50,853 a year ago to £221,490, and this is evidently accounted for by the fact that part of the interests in Colombia have been exchanged for shares in the well-known Tropical Oil Company, an American concern which so far has achieved more progress than any other undertaking in the development of Colombia's oilfields. In the special circumstances in which the Lobitos is placed, this exchange seems good policy, and it has resulted in sales of property amounting to £175,343 appearing in this year's balance sheet. The 1922 output was 110,010 tons, against 103,755 tons in 1921. As regards the future, everything depends upon the terms on which the contract with Standard Oil is renewed, and this will probably be mentioned at the meeting. Various reserves total £312,750, irrespective of taxation reserve of £125,000.

PUBLICITY AS TO NEW ISSUES.

For years past the markets have been accustomed to see moderate-sized issues of good securities placed without an appeal for subscriptions from the public. The existence of the great ring of investment trusts and the activities of firms and private individuals enable such transactions to be carried through with success (writes the Stock Exchange Gazette). But it looks as if this form of issue is being carried to greater degrees than ever. Last week we heard of an important industrial undertaking making an issue of £750,000 in debentures which was wholly syndicated with a view to being subsequently introduced upon the Stock Exchange, and this week another important industrial company, proposing to raise £1,000,000, will probably adopt the same course. There are various sound reasons why this method of issuing capital should not be carried to excess; but the reason given for the adoption of this procedure is that the cost of public advertisement has become too great and that private methods are therefore necessary. The principle of placing, rather than advertising, new securities was not intended for operations of this character. The mere publicity involved in an appeal to the public at first hand is a wholesome check on the manner in which new issues are presented, and at the same time the public can obtain the new capital upon even terms. What is more important is that the method of appealing directly to the public by means of a prospectus should not be abandoned for methods which avoid publicity and responsibility.

ARGENTINE TRAFFICS.

Although Argentine railway stocks are an almost neglected market nowadays, the traffic record to date is very encouraging (says Truth). The "big four," the B.A. and Pacific, the B.A. Great Southern, the B.A. Western and the Central Argentine, have a combined aggregate traffic increase of over £4,000,000, or an average of more than £1,000,000 each. This aggregate includes the net receipts of the "Bags" and Western. In the former case the net figures for the forty-six weeks from July 1 last show an increase of £1,422,000, though the increase gross was only £1,042,000, while the Western net increase to date is £690,000, against a gross increase of only £433,000. If the experience of these two lines has been shared by the others (which do not publish net receipts), it is very encouraging, for it means that not only are the Argentine railways enjoying bumper takes, but they are able to reduce expenses still further. The dividend outlook, therefore, is bright, and for the year which will shortly end the "big four" should pay from 6 per cent. to 7 per cent. on their ordinary capital. For the first half of the year the Central Argentine paid at the rate of 5 per cent., and the three others at the rate of 6 per cent.

DIFFICULT BUSINESS IN TROPICAL PRODUCE.

Business in the tropical produce market is carried on only with difficulty (writes our Liverpool Commercial Correspondent). Sellers have to exercise considerable ingenuity in order to carry on trading, but in the palm oil market there seems to be a larger volume of transactions put through than the general trading decline would seem to suggest. The week's sales have amounted to about 2,300 tons, with the last few days particularly active. Prices at the first were dull, and a further fall brought about some sharp buying, which led to a recovery of from 5s. to 7s. 6d. per ton. Buyers, however, soon withdrew, and the bulk of the advance was quickly lost. It is difficult to say definitely where the support comes from, for on the present level of values buyers in the United States do not seem to be interested, and orders from the Continent are very rare. At the same time, the home trade is very timid, but importers apparently are not anxious to unduly press sales, and confine themselves to taking advantage of any tempting orders that come their way. In practically all descriptions near material continues to hold its own, with the discount in the more distant positions varying from 5s. to 10s. per ton. Present quotations show Lagos at £35 7s. 6d., Sherbro £34 15s., Benin £35 5s., and Niger £36. The palm kernel market has been comparatively weak, and values show a decline of from 10s. to 12s. 6d. per ton. The general quotation for all positions rules round £18 15s. Just after the holidays consumers in Hull declined to follow the advance which then set in, and they have since been able to buy as they wished, and trading is reported in afloat kernels as low as £18 10s. The market at Hamburg has been very slow, with hardly any business taking place; the value rules at about £8 15s. Antwerp is dull, and the nearest value for Congos, whether afloat or for shipment, may be given as £18 5s. For nut oils the market has been slow throughout the week, and a further all-round decline is recorded. Quotations for refined oils are again reduced, and the demand continues unsatisfactory. The cocoa market is very dull, but a fair amount of damaged material has been sold at a moderate level. Spot refined fermented is now quoted 39s., and fair fermented about 37s. With regard to ground nuts, the market for undecorticated is quiet, and shows an easier tendency. Gambias are quoted £17 10s., and Niger decorticated c.i.f. Continent £22 12s. 6d.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The terms of the new West Australian loan make India 4½ per cent. still look very cheap. War Loan Fives are expected to move up after the expiration of the War Bond Conversion options (says The Sunday Times). The Home Railway Preferred Ordinary Stocks are rising, while the Deferred Ordinary are left out in the cold. The quotation of London and North-Eastern Deferred, which at 35 is nearly seven points lower than Southern Deferred, seems anomalous, the minimum dividend estimate of 2½ per cent. showing a 7 per cent. yield on this price, while it is highly probable that the group will eventually earn 5 per cent. on its Deferred Stock. Holders of Textile shares should note the remarks of the Fine Cotton Spinners' chairman at the recent meeting. He described the board as a united body of optimists. They did not believe that the cotton trade was doomed, and they had every confidence that they could render a good account.

The directors of the Eagle Star and British Dominions Insurance Company announce that they have decided that the rate of interim bonus shall be increased from 20/- per cent. per annum to 30/- per cent. per annum upon the sum assured. This increase will come into force in respect of each policy becoming a claim on and after the 1st June, 1923, and before the 1st January, 1926.

The Belfast and County Down Railway Company gives notice of the closing of the registers of holders of Debenture Stock, "A" Preference Stock, and 3 per cent. Baronial Guaranteed Shares, from the 16th to 30th June, both days inclusive.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

EASY ON PLETHORA OF CREDIT.

Little demand for loans was experienced on Saturday in the Money market. Following Friday's heavy dividend disbursements, the supply of credit was, of course, abundant, and rates naturally ruled easy. Loans over the week-end opened at 1½ per cent., and quickly ran off to 1 per cent., while balances at the close were offering as low as ¾ per cent. For weekly money the rate was 1½ per cent.

Bank Rate (Discount) changed July 13, 1922, 3%.

60 days (fine)	1⅝	Trade	3	3½%
3 months	1⅝	„	3	3½
4 months	1¾	„	3¼	3½
6 months	2⅛
Loans to brokers day-to-day			1½	1¾
„ for a week			1½	2
Deposit allowance Banks at call			1
„ Discount houses, at call			1
„ „ at notice			1¼

Discount business was inactive. No increase of dealings resulted from Friday's Treasury bill tenders. Rates were unchanged, showing, perhaps, an easier tendency. For six months' paper the quotation was 2⅛-2¼ per cent., while 1⅞-2 per cent. was quoted for shorter dates. The banks attempted to buy July Treasuries, but very few were available. The "new" were nominally 1⅞-1⅞ per cent.

Silver closed unchanged, but with a steadier tendency. Cash is, therefore, 31⅜d. and forward 31⁷⁄₁₆d.

Few alterations occurred among foreign exchanges. Marks weakened to a new record of 352,000 to the £, but made partial recovery. Francs showed a favourable tendency. The following are closing quotations:—

CRIQUI WINS FEATHER-WEIGHT TITLE.

KILBANE KNOCKED OUT IN 6th ROUND.

NEW YORK, June 2.

Eugene Criqui won the Feather-Weight Championship of the World this afternoon, knocking out Johnny Kilbane, the holder, in the sixth round with a suddenness which surprised the spectators. It was a right swing to the jaw which floored Kilbane, and the blow was delivered with such force and precision that he was unable to regain his feet.

Kilbane fought for the most part on the defensive, always appearing, however, to be awaiting a chance to send over his famous right. The European champion was likewise cautious, and very much on the qui vive for an opportunity to land an effective blow. There was a huge attendance at the Polo Ground when Criqui, who was accompanied by a squad of poilus in uniform, entered the ring.

It was announced that Criqui weighed 8st. 11½lb., and Kilbane at 8st. 13lb.

Round 1—The Frenchman at once took the offensive, but found Kilbane very elusive. Kilbane sent in several left jabs to the nose, and hooked a left to the jaw.

Round 2—Criqui was cautioned for hitting low. There was a smart exchange of lefts at the bell.

Round 3—Criqui landed several rights and lefts to the head, and kept Kilbane fighting defensively.

Round 4—This round was marked by heavy exchanges of rights and lefts to the head.

Round 5—Criqui penetrated Kilbane's defence and punished him severely with blows to the body and head. Kilbane retired to his corner showing signs of distress.

Round 6—The Frenchman rushed in like a tiger. Kilbane tried to clinch, but Criqui shook him off. The American sent in a stiff right to the jaw, but Criqui countered with a left to the stomach, and swung rights and lefts to the jaw, driving his opponent to the ropes. Then, as he rebounded, Criqui caught him with another right swing to the point, sending him backwards on the canvas under the ropes. The champion rose on one knee, but at the count of six he toppled over on to his back and was counted out.

When Kilbane was taken to his corner Criqui rushed over and kissed his fallen foe.

WOOL TEXTILE INDEX NUMBERS.

The wool textile index number of the "Weekly Wool Chart" (Bradford) for May stands at 168, compared with 165 for April, and 145 a year ago. The index number is compiled from monthly average prices of wool, tops, and yarns, the base period being July, 1914. For wool alone the index number is 160, compared with 155 for April, and 129 a year ago; for tops, 161, compared with 158 in April, and 140 a year ago; and for yarns, 182, compared with 183 in April, and 166 a year ago. The index numbers for wool and tops are at the highest point reached since the slump, but yarns are lower than in the earlier months of this year. The span between wool and yarns is the smallest since the war. During the latter part of May there was an easier tendency in tops and yarns, without any corresponding movement in raw material.

CRICKET.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY V. LEINSTER.

Leinster had considerably the worse of the draw in which their match with Dublin University resulted on Saturday in the College Park, as at the close the Rathmines side, with but 4 wickets in hand, still required 46 runs to save the innings defeat. On Friday Trinity had scored 56 without loss in reply to the Leinster total of 131. Resuming on Saturday in fine, warm weather, the students, thanks to Heaslip, Ganly, and Sugden, were able to declare with 7 wickets down for 248, the innings having been in progress altogether three and a half hours. The 'Varsity captain got top score with 76, a contribution which, free from blemish, occupied just two hours, and included ten boundaries. Ganly, who survived an appeal for l.b.w. before he had scored, made 51, a good innings, which included 6 fours. Sugden, after a patient start, batted confidently for 47. Harrington bore the brunt of the Leinster attack, and secured 3 wickets for 68 runs.

Leinster, requiring 117 to save the innings defeat, had two hours' batting. They made a very disastrous start, losing Hill, Burrowes, McDonagh, and Bex with but 12 on the board, the four wickets falling to Kelly in five overs for 2 runs. Nash and Harrington, however, came to the rescue, and by careful batting kept their side from defeat. Harrington got an invaluable 24, while Nash played soundly for 22. Kelly had the splendid analysis of 5 wickets for 12 runs. Trinity take the League points for a lead on the first innings. Score:—

CIVIL SERVICE V. R. AND S.P. UNION.

In the Phœnix Park on Saturday Civil Service defeated Railway and Steam Packet Union by 32 runs. Batting first on a good wicket and in delightful weather the home side were dismissed in the course of an hour and a half for 107. The feature of the innings was the fine stand, lasting an hour and a quarter, by Buxton for an excellently put together 44 without the offer of a chance. Francis, who opened the innings with him, was unfortunate in being leg before to Bookman when apparently well set, and with 10 to his credit. W. P. Worthington batted steadily for a while half-way through the venture, and J. Worthington and Sweeney had a lively, if uncertain, partnership for the last wicket. Bookman carried off the bowling honours with 4 wickets for 27. The fielding of the visitors was good, Barron, at mid-off, being especially serviceable in saving runs. Railway Union were dismissed for 75. The feature of the innings was the bowling of Sweeney, for Civil Service, who had the first 5 wickets to his credit for 11 runs, the score then standing at 30. Bookman, who shaped well at the start, was dismissed on a fine low catch by Pemberton in the slips when he had made 10. E. Hool and Blackwell made a stand for the sixth wicket, putting on 24 in partnership before Hool, who had been strong on the leg side, sent up a catch and was dismissed for 22. Sweeney at the close had 6 wickets for 26. Score:—

YORKSHIRE V. NOTTS.

Winning the toss against Yorkshire at Leeds on Saturday, Nottinghamshire batted for nearly five and a half hours, and scored 197 for the loss of eight wickets. G. Gunn, who had been out of the team for two matches owing to an injury, and Whysall, by careful batting, made a useful start, and put on 85 for the first partnership of two hours and ten minutes before Whysall, who in that time hit only two boundaries, was out. G. Gunn, who batted for three hours and was third out at 121, hit 5 fours. He gave a smart chance to Waddington at slip when 43, and from the next ball Carr, who had just previously hit a 6 from Rhodes, was missed by Leyland in the long field. Both these chances came from Rhodes' bowling. When four wickets had fallen for 134, Payton and Hardstaff added 28, of which Payton, who batted well and hit a 6 from Kilner, got 23. With the wicket soft and the Yorkshire bowlers able to make the ball turn considerably, the batsmen found it impossible to score runs quickly, and Hardstaff, who was painfully slow in his methods, was subjected to some barracking by the crowd. He occupied an hour and three-quarters in getting his first 7 runs, all singles, but his stubborn stand was useful to his side, and when he was not out at the close of the day he had been batting nearly two hours and a half, and had so far made only one boundary. Carr, apart from the chance he gave from a lofty drive, batted well, but in a quieter style than usual. After a dull morning, the weather turned sunny, and there was a splendid attendance. Score:—

GLOUCESTERSHIRE V. LANCASHIRE.

In Gloucestershire's first match of the season, Goddard, a bowler slightly above medium pace, obtained five wickets for 19, but since then he has done little until on Saturday at Gloucester, when he took 6 Lancashire wickets for 41. He kept an excellent length, and, thanks to his fine effort, the visitors were dismissed in two hours and three-quarters for 173. Ernest Tyldesley showed as good form as anyone on his side, for although Sharp, who resumed the captaincy, hit freely, he was lucky. At lunch-time the score was 92, with three men out. Then Goddard brought about such a collapse that eight wickets were down for 130. He took 4 for five runs in three overs. At that stage R. Tyldesley showed considerable resource and claimed 31 of the 43 put on. There was little in the state of the pitch to account for the difficulty experienced in making runs. Bright sunshine did not improve its state as the day advanced, and was responsible for the failure of several Gloucestershire batsmen. Bloodworth, by a plucky effort, advanced the total from 6 to 73, and his effort was closely followed by Neale, who made a successful first appearance. With Parker he carried the total to 148, so that Gloucestershire wound up 25 behind with 4 wickets in hand. Scores:—

KENT V. WORCESTERSHIRE.

Having all the better of an interesting day's cricket in the match with Worcestershire at Gravesend, Kent, after Worcestershire had been dismissed in just over three hours and a half for 208, replied with 129 for the loss of two wickets. Kent's strong position was due in the first place to the excellent bowling of Collins, who secured five wickets at a cost of 11 runs apiece, and a splendid end of the day partnership between Hardinge and Woolley. On a dead, but easy-paced, wicket the early Worcestershire batsmen offered such a poor resistance to the slow bowling of Hardinge and Freeman that half the side were out for 87, and it was not until Higgins was joined by Coventry at the fall of the seventh wicket at 110 that the game was pulled round. When Higgins was bowled, after batting with great restraint for two hours, the partnership had yielded 66 in an hour. Coventry was the next to leave, being caught at slip from a ball that came sharply off the pitch. For an hour and a half, however, he had played very attractive cricket, showing a nice discretion in picking the right ball to hit. He was so severe on Freeman that he drove him in quick succession for 2 sixes and 3 fours, and altogether sent the ball to the boundary eight times. Kent, having about an hour and 50 minutes batting, made an excellent start, Hardinge and Bryan sharing in an opening partnership of 58 in 40 minutes. Delightful batting was seen when Woolley joined Hardinge, and when Woolley was bowled by the last ball of the day their partnership had realised 71 in 65 minutes. Woolley obtained his runs by cuts and drives. Hardinge, so far, has given no chance, and he hit splendidly on the leg-side. Kent, with eight wickets in hand, are 79 behind. Score:—

ESSEX V. SURREY.

John Douglas bowled so successfully at Leyton on Saturday that six Surrey wickets fell to him while the total was reaching 74, and yet the visitors scored 390 in five hours and ten minutes. Douglas actually sent back Hobbs, Ducat, Shepherd, and Harrison in ten overs at a cost of 18 runs, while the total was reaching 26, and at lunch-time half the visitors were out for 54. Fender was the sixth victim before Sandham received any appreciable help, and for the remainder of the day the bat was as much the master as the ball had been previously. Abel hit up 18 out of 37 in twenty minutes; then Hitch made 60 out of 137 in ninety-five minutes, while Peach and Sandham treated the bowling with such severity that they put on 108 in fifty-five minutes. Last out, leg before to Hipkin, the young left-hander, who took three of the last four wickets, Sandham had the satisfaction of completing his 200. He played splendid cricket all day on an easy-paced pitch; getting 52 out of 100 in two hours, he reached 100 in three hours and five minutes with the total 191, and doubled his score in two hours and five minutes. While his most dependable partners were failing through playing back when Douglas pitched the ball well up with considerable speed and swerve, helped by a cross-wind, Sandham was chiefly playing Eastman, who bowled his first nine overs for 7 runs. When Douglas was no longer effective the weakness of the Essex bowling in the absence of Louden and P. H. Morris became apparent, but, for all that, great credit belongs to Sandham, who played splendid cricket from first to last, and only once lifted the ball dangerously in an innings marked by a perfect defence and beautiful hitting all round the wicket. Sandham was equally good in cutting and driving to the off, and turning the ball to leg. Hitch and Peach both got most of their runs in front of the wicket, Peach driving very hard and hitting eight 4's. Douglas took the first six wickets, but three of the last four were claimed by Hipkin, the young left-hander, who bowled very well after an expensive first over. Scores:—

HAMPSHIRE V. WARWICKSHIRE.

A fine display of resolute cricket by Brown and Mead, Hampshire's two left-handed batsmen, enabled the home county at Portsmouth to make a splendid recovery from an inauspicious start on Saturday. Joining Mead just before lunch, when 4 wickets had gone down for 52 runs, Brown stayed to make his first 100 this summer out of 159 scored while he was at the wicket. With Mead playing a strong on-side game, and placing to leg cleverly, the partnership yielded 98 runs in just over an hour and a half. A powerful drive enabled Brown to reach 50 off the next ball to that from which Mead completed his half hundred, and after his partner had mistimed a ball from Quaife, Brown went on to hold a complete mastery over the frequently changed bowling. He was seventh to leave at 211. A fine drive off Howell gave him the coveted 100, but Brown sent the next ball into the hands of short leg, where Grayland was substituting Smart, who had injured his ankle. Whereas earlier in the day the wicket had not been favourable to run-getting it later became quite easy paced. Eventually the Hampshire total reached 260. The visitors had about twenty minutes' batting at the close of the day, and, losing two men for 14 runs, finished up 246 behind, with 8 wickets to fall. Score:—

LEICESTERSHIRE V. SUSSEX.

Over four thousand spectators at Leicester on Saturday witnessed extremely variable cricket under much pleasanter conditions than seemed possible early in the day. Sussex, batting first, got a good send off by A. H. Gilligan and Bowley, who put on 45 for the first partnership by polished cricket. Afterwards there was a collapse, half the side being out for 75 in an equal number of minutes. Matters continued to go badly with the visitors, and seven wickets were down for 107. The position, however, was saved by resolute batting by Holmes (43) and Wensley (47), who at a critical stage put on 68 in an hour for the eighth partnership. Leicestershire opened badly, both Mounteney and Lord being sent back when only 17 runs had been scored. Astill (34) and Fowke (26), however, altered the position by adding 59 in seventy-five minutes for the third wicket. Score:—

MIDDLESEX V. WEST INDIES.

Considering the bitter weather, there was a surprisingly good attendance at Lord's on Saturday. A true estimate of the team from the West Indies can scarcely be formed till they have the good fortune, denied them so far, to play under genial conditions. Batting all the afternoon, Middlesex ran up a total of 337. It was a curious innings. Thanks to Hendren and R. H. Hill, who put on 162 runs together in about two hours, the score reached 336, with five men out. At this point Hendren left, and only one more run was obtained. John did a sensational piece of work, taking four wickets, all clean bowled, in 17 balls. Playing his third innings of over 100 in the course of eleven days, Hendren gave a very fine display. For a long time he was sedate in his methods, taking over three hours to get his 100, but he hit a five and 13 fours, and was rarely or never at fault. Score:—

OXFORD UNIVERSITY V. THE ARMY.

Making five changes from the side beaten at Cambridge, the Army gave an unequal batting display against Oxford University on Saturday. Williams (60) and Wilkinson (65) gave them an excellent start, this pair putting on 95 for the first wicket. Four men were out for 163, but the last six fell for 39. It was when Stevens came on for the third time that the collapse commenced. Sixty-eight had been hit off his bowling without a wicket, but he bowled so well that he took the last six wickets for 21. Going in against the Army total of 212, Oxford made a fairly good start, but Jardine Lyon and Stevens were out for 63, while at 85 Guise was bowled. Score:—

GLAMORGAN V. NORTHANTS.

At Swansea on Saturday the match between Glamorgan and Northants was left in a most interesting position, as the home county with six wickets outstanding require only 86 to equal the Northants total. Northants gave a strangely inconsistent batting display, and it was left to Thomas (not out 67) to pull the side round. Woolley (40) played bright cricket at the outset, but, with three wickets falling for an addition of four runs after the interval, the visitors had six men out for 98. This partial collapse brought Thomas and Bull (36) together, and the seventh wicket partnership yielded 83. Score:—

COLLEGE CHAMPIONSHIP.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

THE CROKE PARK FETE.

Hurling is making marked progress in the Irish colleges. It is a game the young Celtic "idea" accepts with fervour. For many years its popularity in our educational institutions was negligible. A few scattered enthusiasts, however, got the game an entry into the colleges on a level basis with other games. No more was needed, for the intrinsic merits of the game itself did the rest. Now all the colleges in Munster, Leinster, and Connaught have hurling teams, and annual championships will be conducted from now on.

Rockwell's success with the caman has been rapid and decisive. Situated in the heart of Tipperary county, in a district with great hurling traditions, and having its students largely recruited from Munster, success might be expected. They have readily assumed superiority over other Munster colleges longer associated with the game; and their performance at Croke Park in yesterday's All-Ireland Final enhanced their hurling reputation.

As opponents they had Roscrea College. The Roscrea boys had a great victory recently against Kilkenny (St. Kieran's), but they were no match for Rockwell yesterday. Rockwell were quicker strikers, but they met stiff opposition from Cleary and Shanahan in Roscrea's defence. Then Finucane got away, and Sweeney shot a fast, low goal. When Roscrea got down their forwards were not quick enough to force home their opportunities, and Sheehan drove them back. A determined Rockwell attack ended in Brosnahan registering Rockwell's second goal.

Roscrea then settled down to better hurling. They hit out freely, and combined well. A pretty movement ended in Tobin beating Rockwell's defence for a great goal. To the half-way stage Roscrea were aggressive; their forwards lost many bright openings, and Coll sent Rockwell away for Sweeney to land Rockwell's third goal with a fast, low ball. Half-time:—

Rockwell .... 3 goals.

Roscrea .... 1 goal.

Rockwell sent wide from their first attack, and Shanahan returned. Roscrea had fast, reliable backs, but their forwards were no match for the heavier, hard-hitting Munster defenders. Then a long centre from the left saw Finucane send in and Rockwell rush another goal. They had all the better of the game thenceforward. Sheehan, Coll, McCarthy, and Hackett kept Roscrea out; and Hickey, adding a goal and a cleverly-lifted point from long range, made the issue secure. A goal from a 70 by Rockwell's captain (Sheehan) was a remarkable feat for a schoolboy. It was the last score, for, though Roscrea struggled pluckily to the end, want of ball-control and decision in attack left Fleming with little to do in Rockwell's goal.

Roscrea failed to reproduce the hurling they showed against Kilkenny, but were now matched against a heavier, more determined, and skilful team. Result:—

Rockwell .... 6 goals, 1 point.

Roscrea .... 1 goal.

Mr. A. Harty made a capable referee.

The Croke Park Fête is proving a great success. It was opened auspiciously on Saturday afternoon. The President of the G.A.A. referred to recent G.A.A. difficulties, and the endeavour to make Croke Park a worthy national stadium, and Mr. Walsh, P.M.G., and Aonach Tailteann Director, alluded to the Association's great national work in the past, and its future possibilities.

A keen hurling game in connection with the fête competitions was played yesterday morning between Colberts and Grocers. Grocers had the better of the game territorially, but lacked finish in front of goal—a noticeable fault with our hurlers nowadays. O'Brien put Colberts 1 point up early on, and Murphy added a goal, to which Brophy, of Grocers, replied with a high point. Rapid exchanges at midfield followed, M. Ryan netting for Grocers. Martin Murphy, the Colberts captain, was again a sharp marksman, and gave Colberts the lead at the interval.

The second period produced a dower struggle for supremacy, with Grocers frequently in attack, and getting beaten back by Colbert's sound defence, in which William Murphy was prominent. Hanrahan and Ryan, scoring for Grocers, gave their team bright prospects, but Martin Murphy, the Colberts captain, got a further goal near the end, and gave his side the narrow advantage of one point. Grocers were, however, unlucky losers. Final score:—

Colberts .... 2 goals, 3 points.

Grocers .... 2 goals, 2 points.

At 7.30 huge crowds were congregated in Croke Park, and it was with difficulty the pitch was kept clear for the football tie between St. Mary's and Emeralds. It proved a brisk game, however. Emeralds forced the pace for the first quarter, and notched a point. Then, per Carroll, Bradlaw, and Fitzgibbon, the St. Mary's attacked. A brace of points came from Healy, on St. Mary's left wing, and from a free by Bradlaw, Fitzgibbon punched in a goal. Emeralds attacked briskly on resumption, and, following several onslaughts on Mary's goal, O'Gorman found the net for Emeralds. It was a close match to the end.

St. Mary's .... 2 goals, 2 points.

Emeralds .... 1 goal, 1 point.

MUNSTER CHAMPIONSHIP FIXTURES.

At a meeting of the Munster Council of the G.A.A., held in Tipperary last evening, Mr. J. O'Brien, Clare, President, in the chair, the 1922 hurling and football championship finals were definitely fixed for Thurles on July 1st. The 1923 championships were fixed as follow:—Cork v. Waterford, senior hurling and junior football, Dungarvan, 24th June; senior football and junior hurling, at Cork, 8th July. Kerry and Limerick, senior hurling and junior football, at Tralee, 15th July; senior football and junior hurling, at Limerick, on 29th July. Tipperary and Clare, senior football and junior hurling, at Nenagh, 22nd July; senior hurling and junior football adjourned to next meeting.
